CALIFORNIA SIXTEENTH STATE TO RATIFY DRY LAW REPEAL IN NATION

Repealists Give Majority Of Better Than 600,000 Votes; New Taxation System Also Is Approved

RIVERSIDE COUNTY IS DRY

SAN FRANCISCO, June 28.—(UP)—California today became the sixteenth consecutive state to ratify repeal of the 18th amendment. In the same breath it wound up one of the most controversial special elections in years by legalizing pari-mutuel horse racing, approved a $20,000,000 unemployment bond issue, and served notice that henceforth its watchword will be economy.

In summation the electorate voted as follows:

1. Gave repealists better than a 600,000 majority, definitely aligning the Golden State with West Virginia and 14 other commonwealths which voted for repeal in unbroken procession.
2. Decided to try a new taxation system.
3. Approved issuance of $20,000,000 in unemployment relief bonds.
4. Turned down a proposal to exempt non-profit schools from taxation.
5. Legalized pari-mutuel racing which makes horse racing and incident betting a legitimate sport.
6. Gave Los Angeles and Orange counties the right to require their assessors to assess property damaged or destroyed by earthquakes.
7. Turned thumbs down on proposals to issue $55,000,000 in state bonds to refinance irrigation and declaration of highway bonds.
8. Declared state legislative acts effective immediately after passage.
9. Decided to regulate the compensation of county supervisors, auditors and district attorneys.
10. Overwhelmingly rejected two proposals to divert gasoline tax funds to the state general fund for payment of bond interest and redemption of highway bonds.

FIVE CITIES IN L. A. COUNTY IN "DRY" COLUMN

Claremont, LaVerne, Pomona, Whittier, Covina Oppose Repeal

LOS ANGELES, June 28.—(UP)—Of the 41 communities in Los Angeles county, five voted "dry" in yesterday's election, returns showed today.

They were Claremont, La Verne, Pomona, Whittier and Covina. Claremont and Pomona voted to remain in the "dry" column, while La Verne, Whittier and Covina voted to join the "wet" column.

Plans for incorporation of a new municipality in East Los Angeles, to be known as Garden City, were defeated by a vote of 345 to 293.

Justice of the Peace Irving P. Austin of Compton was recalled in a special election there, and H. Leonard Kaufman, justice of the peace in Dominguez township, was elected to succeed him.

FATE OF SPANISH FLIERS IS UNKNOWN

MEXICO CITY, June 28.—(UP)—An oil camp water carrier was under arrest at Minatitlan today after confessing that he falsely reported seeing the bodies of Capt. Mariano Barberan and Lieut. Joaquin Collar beside their wrecked transatlantic airplane on an island in a coastal lake.

The fate of the aviators, who disappeared on a Havana-Mexico City flight, remained a mystery. They were last seen flying up the Mexican coast, in bad weather eight days ago.

Manuel Balcazar is the water carrier. He said he heard gossip that the bodies were on the island, and reported he had seen them, hoping to get the large reward.

THREE GUESSES

TEXTILE INDUSTRY AGREES TO PUT BAN ON CHILD LABOR

Protest Is Filed Over Low Wages

WASHINGTON, June 28.—(UP)—Willingness of the cotton textile industry to ban child labor was announced today.

T. M. Marchant, of Greenville, S. C., president of the American Cotton Manufacturers association, made the announcement in dramatic fashion at the resumption of hearings on a proposed code of fair competition for the textile industry under the national recovery administration.

Marchant, declaring the subject long has been close to his mind, proposed that the code be amended to include specific regulations against employment of any children under 14 years of age.

The announcement was greeted with applause by the 600 or more spectators.

The subject of child labor was brought up yesterday at the beginning of the hearing when George A. Sloan, president of the Cotton Textile institute, said he believed the $10 minimum wage would serve to eliminate employment of minors because it would be uneconomical to hire children at that rate. Sloan appeared again today at the outset of the hearing and said the textile committee which drew up the code met again last night to consider the child labor provision.

Sloan introduced Marchant, who reported on the committee's action.

As proposed by Marchant, the banishment of child labor would be for the existence of the economic emergency.

Russell E. Watson, representing Johnson and Johnson, manufacturers of surgical gauze, protested against the minimum wage and maximum work provisions of the proposed textile code.

Watson said that instead of $10 for the south and $11 for the north his company favored minimum wages of $14 and $15 respectively.

ROOSEVELT AND NORMAN DAVIS IN CONFERENCE

America's Roving Ambassador Reports on Geneva Arms Parley

LAKE MAN'S BAY, ROGUE ISLAND, Me., June 28.—(UP)—A navy lifeboat today carried Norman Davis, America's roving ambassador, through seven miles of fog blanketed Atlantic to President Roosevelt on the schooner Ambergjack II.

Davis, summoned to present to the chief executive full details of the Geneva disarmament conference, was transferred at sea from the destroyer Bernadou to the small boat from the destroyer Ellis which had slowly picked its way through an almost impenetrable wall of white mist.

The hazardous trip to the Bernadou anchored off Libby's islands was made by Franklin Roosevelt Jr., who was eager for adventure after nearly three days of enforced idleness in the harbor here because of the fog. Lieut. Stuart Blue was in command of the small boat.

Aboard the Ambergjack the president lost no time in getting down to brass tacks with Davis, who also is chief of the American delegation to the Geneva conference. It was expected their discussions would be completed in time to allow the latter to proceed to Machias, Me., to entrain for Boston and New York.

The life boat also returned to the Ambergjack James Roosevelt, eldest son of the president, who went to Boston several days ago to participate as a delegate in the Massachusetts repeal convention. Marvin H. McIntyre, White House secretary, was a passenger on the Bernadou which left Boston Monday afternoon but which was delayed by the bad weather.

HEAT WAVE IN MIDDLE WEST BROKEN TODAY

Thunder Showers Bring Relief to Humans, Animals in Kansas City

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 28.—(UP)—A record-breaking heat wave that has blistered the mid-continent area for several weeks lost some of its potency today.

Local thunder showers relieved humans, animals and crops in some sections, and slightly lower temperatures were forecast.

Kansas City was swept during the night by a storm that brought 3.3 inch of rain. Other points in the Missouri valley reported showers.

From Oklahoma City came the report of temperatures slowly returning to normal. The reading there yesterday was 98, compared with 102 the previous day.

The high mark recorded in Oklahoma was 105, compared with 108 the day before. The forecast was for continued warm, however, with no hint of rain.

Rains fell throughout the night in various parts of the Kansas wheat belt, bringing much needed relief. Skies generally were clear again today, with rising temperatures expected.

A five-week drought period appeared broken in Nebraska, with temperature readings several degrees lower than those of the past few days. Intermittent rains fell throughout the state.

Temperatures were above normal in the Rocky mountain region, Denver reporting a maximum of 93 and a forecast of "continued fair and warm."

The mercury at Salt Lake City, Utah, reached the 92 mark. It was the 17th consecutive day the reading had been above 90 degrees.

From Texas points came the report, "No relief in sight, continued high temperatures."

HOOPER'S PRECINCT VOTES FOR REPEAL

PALO ALTO, Cal., June 28.—(UP)—Former President Herbert Hoover's home precinct voted 67 to 51 in favor of repeal of prohibition, complete returns disclosed today.

The Stanford university campus area, stable in the past as a prohibition stronghold, favored repeal, 226 to 98.

Mr. Hoover took no public notice of California's vote on repeal. He entertained as his guest Harlan Fiske Stone, associate justice of the United States supreme court, at his home atop San Juan Hill on the Stanford campus.

800 NAVAL WORKERS PUT ON FURLONGS

WASHINGTON, June 28.—(UP)—Secretary of the Navy Swanson announced today he had ordered approximately 800 employees of naval yards and stations to be placed on furlough without pay until September 30.

These employees previously were scheduled for discharge. Swanson said he had changed his order in view of the prospects of increased employment because of naval construction under the national industrial recovery act.

The employees include professional, technical, clerical and police groups.

Swanson further ordered shop employees including laborers, helpers and mechanics to be continued on the system of rotating leave without pay which has been in force since last November.

ATTEMPT TO BREAK JAIL FRUSTRATED

SAN JOSE, Calif., June 28.—(UP)—The fourth attempt of prisoners to escape from the county jail here in a month was frustrated today by deputy sheriffs when they found two inmates sawing the bars of their cell with hacksaws.

Deputy Sheriff Ray Hicks said Sam Thomas, awaiting trial for the asserted murder of a San Jose policeman, and Leo Rodoni, ex-convict charged with burglary, had cut one bar in half when he discovered the plot.

164 SHIPS TO BE KEPT ON PACIFIC

SAN PEDRO, Cal., June 28.—(UP)—The United States fleet will operate 164 ships in the San Pedro-San Diego area during the next fiscal year, beginning Saturday, the fleet's operating plan showed today.

The navy will maintain 299 vessels in commission in all waters, with a total of 34,150 men, approximately 73 per cent of full complement. In addition, 431 naval aircraft with a personnel of 3448 men will be maintained.

Floating craft to be operated in the San Pedro-San Diego area will include 13 battleships, 15 heavy cruisers, 10 light cruisers, 30 destroyers, 8 submarines, 4 aircraft carriers, 1 aircraft tender, 6 submarine and destroyer tenders, 19 mine sweepers, 16 naval vessels and the navy's new ship, the U. S. S. Macon.

FIVE COMMUNITIES IN COUNTY VOTE AGAINST REPEAL; RACING LOSES

Recommendations Of Register Followed In Santa Ana Excepting On Liquor Issues, Revealed

64 PERCENT VOTE IN SANTA ANA

GOING TO THE polls yesterday in a special election Santa Ana, Fullerton, Orange and the county, as a whole joined the "wet parade". The county vote favoring repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment was 18,014 for repeal and 14,536 against the proposal.

While the county, as a unit, voted to repeal the Eighteenth Amendment five communities voted in favor of prohibition. Orange led the parade after approving a city measure to legalize the sale of beer by defeating repeal by a vote of 1386 against to 1334 in favor of repeal.

Garden Grove cast 303 votes for repeal and 542 against; La Habra voted 268 for repeal and 331 against the measure. In Tustin, where the sale of beer has been permitted for approximately three months, repeal was favored by a vote of 154 against repeal to 140 for repeal. Yorba Linda cast 294 votes against repeal and 154 for the measure.

Aside from the vote cast on repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment and the sale of beer in the county, voters generally, followed the lead of The Register.

In the county it was estimated that a 60 per cent vote was cast while 64 per cent of the registered voters in Santa Ana went to the polls.

Despite the fact that voters of the county reversed their stand of many years regarding prohibition they refused to endorse Proposition No. 3 legalizing betting on horse races.

THREE ORANGE COUNTY CITIES VOTE FOR BEER

Santa Ana, Fullerton and Orange Upset Tradition at Election

THREE ORANGE county cities, Santa Ana, Fullerton and Orange, listed among the strongest dry communities in Southern California yesterday in the special election upset tradition and approved the sale of beer.

Santa Ana legalized the sale of beer by a majority of 516 votes. In Orange the majority was 159 votes while Fullerton approved the sale of beer by a 621 majority.

Apathy on the part of dry voters in Santa Ana is held by the dry workers as the reason for the defeat of their cause in the city. They point out that 3100 drys who voted to uphold the Wright act in the November election failed to vote while the loss of votes through apathy of the wets was but 250.

In the county plebiscite on whether or not the sale of beer shall be legalized in unincorporated areas the vote favored sale of beer by a majority of 292. There were 17,012 votes cast in the county favoring the sale of beer and 14,020 against the proposal.

The unincorporated areas approved the sale of beer by a majority of 405 votes. The vote in favor of legalized sale of the beverage in the unincorporated area was 4676 while there were 4271 against legalization of its sale.

WEST VIRGINIA IN FAVOR OF REPEAL

CHARLESTON, W. Va., June 28.—(UP)—Wets carried once dry West Virginia by a majority of approximately two to one, returns from yesterday's repeal election, showed early today.

The wet majority in urban centers was as high as three to one. Several rural sections gave the dry cause slight majorities, but these made little impression against the heavier city vote.

Returns from 1590 or 2338 precincts showed:

For repeal, 160,000.
Against repeal, 80,000.

West Virginia was a "doubtful" state until the first tabulations showed its new wet leanings. It was the first of the traditionally dry southern states to vote on the 21st (repeal) amendment.

CLAIMS ASSAILANT

SAN PEDRO, Cal., June 28.—(UP)—Edward Kalmin, 47-year-old fisherman, was treated today for severe injuries which he said were inflicted by a rival fisherman, who beat him with a club, ignited his clothing with kerosene and left him to die on San Clemente Island.

Kalmin named as his assailant John Kishfet, whom San Diego authorities were asked to arrest.

Kalmin, owner of the fishing boat Victor, accused Kishfet of attacking him after they had quarreled over the loss of fishing equipment. His body was burned and his face mutilated.

FAMOUS PILOTS TO RACE ON SATURDAY

NEW YORK, June 28.—(UP)—Four and possibly five well-known pilots, flying some of the fastest land planes in the world, will leave Floyd Bennett field at daybreak Saturday in an attempt to set a new westward transcontinental record in the $10,000 Bendix speed derby from New York to the National air races at Los Angeles.

The present westward record, 12 hours and 33 minutes, was established last November by Col. Roscoe Turner of Los Angeles, who will defend his title.

The others who definitely will compete are Russell Thaw, son of Evelyn Nesbit and Harry K. Thaw; Lee Gehlbach and James Wedell.

MATTER SEARCH IS HELD TO BE USELESS

MOSCOW, June 28.—(UP)—Officials at Khabarovsk, Siberia, said today that the American search in the Aleutian islands for James J. Mattern, missing around-the-world flier, is almost useless.

They said that his route was much more to the north, and he could have reached the Aleutians only if he mistook the route or disregarded his compass.

Frontier guards, radio stations and ships have been maintaining a sharp lookout, with instructions to give all possible assistance.

WISCONSIN MAN IS NEW KIWANIS HEAD

LOS ANGELES, June 28.—(UP)—Joshua L. Johns, Appleton, Wis., attorney, was elected unanimously today as president of Kiwanis International in its 17th annual convention here.

Judge A. A. Schramm of Marquette, O., and Andrew Whyte of Edmonton, Alberta, new vice-presidents, also were elected unopposed.

REPEAL VOTE WILL BE CAST IN JULY

SACRAMENTO, Cal., June 28.—(UP)—California delegates favoring repeal of the 18th amendment will meet here in convention to cast their votes in favor of the 21st amendment sometime between July 24 and 29, P—unk C. Jordan, secretary of state, said today.

The secretary of state's office has 40 days in which to certify the vote at yesterday's election, but Jordan said he anticipated less than half that time would be necessary.

Unofficial returns showed delegates favoring repeal won by a huge majority.

TRADE NAME SUIT IS OPENED TODAY

LOS ANGELES, June 28.—(UP)—Charging infringement of trade name, the California Packing company's suit for an injunction against the Sun-Maid Raisin company of San Francisco, began in federal court here today.

The California Packing company said in its complaint it had no objection to the use of the trade name "Sun-Maid" on raisins, but claimed the use of the name on canned products, including fruits and fish, infringed upon its own trade name "Sun-Kissed."

as recorded in the unincorporated areas.

At the time the plebiscite was ordered placed on the ballot, the board declared that the vote was taken for the purpose of determining the wishes of the county area. They also declared that in revising the county dry law it would be zoned to prevent the forcing of beer sales on unincorporated areas that voted against the proposition.

Despite the fact that the voters of Santa Ana approved the move to legalize the sale of beer in the city, no licenses will be issued for at least 15 days, and anyone selling the beverage before that time is liable to arrest under the state law, according to City Attorney Clyde Downing.

10 Days' Delay
It will be necessary, Downing said, for the council to officially canvass the vote and wait 10 days before allowing the sale of beer to start.

In addition to the legal requirements which will delay the sale of beer in this city there are no license fees of local regulations set up to handle the beer business. Several applications to sell the beverage have been received by the city council and will be given consideration on the same basis as future applications. It was said.

The sentiment of the council at present is to permit anyone to sell beer, providing a regular city license is secured. The state law sets a maximum yearly license fee of $50 for wholesale houses and $25 for retail establishments. It is considered likely that this maximum fee will be adopted by the city.

Orange Goes "Wet"
After having been dry for a period of 45 years, the city of Orange voted for the sale of beer by a majority of 159. A total of 1521 votes were cast in the affirmative and 1362 in the negative on the beer sales. The first petition to be circulated for the sale of beer was on April 21, when it was found that the signatures had omitted to add their precinct numbers to their affixed signature. Another petition was circulated May 4 and was filed with the city clerk May 6 having its first reading May 23. The election date was set June 6.

The sale of beer will become legal 10 days after the canvass of the vote and when the vote is declared legal at the next meeting of the city council. At the last meeting of the council the body adjourned to July 3 and if a quorum is not present at this time the meeting will be adjourned to July 5. If on the later date a quorum is still lacking the meeting will be adjourned to July 6, according to City Clerk T. H. Milajah.

The license for the sale of beer has been set for $50 per annum on sale and $10 of sale. Wholesale sellers are to pay a license of $50 a year plus 50 cents a barrel. The ordinance closely follows the state provisions. Orange is said to be the first city in the county to become dry.

In Fullerton it will be more than 30 days before the sale of beer will be permitted. The city council will meet July 30 to canvass the vote and the ordinance will become effective 10 days after the vote has been canvassed.

Under the ordinance that will govern the sale of beer in Fullerton, all applications for licenses to sell beer will be referred to the police department for investigation before the permit is issued.

MANY SPECIAL STOCK ISSUES REGISTER GAIN

Prospects France soon would abandon gold.

The pound sterling reached a new high since 1921 at $4.43 up 12 1/2 cents from the previous close, while the French franc touched 5.12 cents, a new high for the present unit and a rise of 15 1/2 points. In terms of the franc the American dollar was at 76.4 cents, against 78.4 cents at the close yesterday. Today's price was a new low since resumption of specie payments in 1929.

New highs were made by the following: Owens Illinois Glass 9 1/8 up 1/8; National Distillers Alcohol 4 1/2 up 1/4; Crown Cork & Seal 60 up 3; Mengel Preferred 26 1/2 up 2 1/2 (the latter slightly under the high); National Distillers Preferred 115 up 8; and U. S. Industrial Alcohol 66 up 6. Railroad shares were carried up 1 to 3 points in mid-session.

The foregoing issues—Rails, wet stocks, and special issues—eased from their highs on profit-taking, but closed higher.

Steel Common made a new top since 1921 at 59 1/2 up 1 and then slipped back to below 58, rallying slightly before the close. American Telephone eased off as did American Can, American Smelting, and Consolidated Gas.

HUNTINGTON BEACH, June 28.—The American States Water Service company is laying a six-inch water main over portions of the east side in Huntington Beach, the work starting yesterday at Alabama and Frankfort streets. The work is being done with hand labor.

The scale of pay is 5-12 cents a running foot for a ditch 18 inches wide by 30 inches deep. The work is being given mostly to Huntington Beach men unemployed for some time.

According to ancient folklore and superstition, on many occasions birds were supposed to have whispered to humans; hence the expression, "A little bird told me."

FIVE COMMUNITIES IN THIS COUNTY AGAINST REPEAL OF EIGHTEENTH AMENDMENT

favoring the issue and 7731 against it. Proposition No. 3 was approved by a vote of 22,668 for and 6885 against.

Proposition No. 4, providing exemption of private educational institutions from taxation, was defeated in the county by a vote of 10,945 for and 20,228 against.

No. 6 Loses

The county defeated Proposition No. 6, providing state bonds amounting to $55,000,000 for re-financing irrigation and reclamation districts, voting 8153 for and 18,248 against the measure.

Proposition No. 7, declaring effective dates of acts of the state legislature was approved by a vote of 17,914 for and 6766 against. The county government act, Proposition No. 8 on the ballot, was approved by a vote in the county of 14,421 for and 11,842 against.

Both Propositions No. 9 and 10, providing for division of gasoline tax funds for the biennium ending June 30, 1933 and the biennium ending June 30, 1935 were defeated.

Proposition No. 9 was favored by 13,926 voters while 16,227 cast their ballot against the proposal. The vote on No. 10 was 13,448 for and 15,104 against.

In Santa Ana the voters were in favor of diversion of the gasoline taxes casting 5104 for Proposition No. 9 and 3753 in opposition. The Santa Ana vote on Proposition No. 10 was 5235 for and 3680 against.

Santa Ana's vote on the 11 propositions, with the exception of No. 11 providing for the sale of beer in the unincorporated areas coincided with the recommendations to The Register.

On Proposition No. 1 the vote was 4238 for and 4419 against; Proposition No. 2, 6956 for and 2537 against; Proposition No. 3 4409 for and 5157 against; Proposition No. 4, 2653 for and 6907 against; Proposition No. 5, 7109 for and 1856 against; Proposition No. 6, 2116 for and 6121 against; Proposition No. 7, 597 for and 6121 against; Proposition No. 8, 3645 for and 4474 against.

REVEALS KAHN PAID NO INCOME TAXES

WASHINGTON, June 28.—(UP)

Otto H. Kahn, head of Kuhn, Loeb and Co., paid no income tax in 1930-31 and 32, Ferdinand Pecora, counsel for the senate stock market investigation, said today.

Pecora said that some other partners of the firm paid taxes in those years but in "negligible amounts."

Pecora revealed Kahn's income tax record when questioned regarding United Press revelation that he planned today to produce evidence that the principal partners of Kuhn, Loeb and Company, paid no income tax in 1931.

The counsel's revelation came during the noon recess of the investigation and probably will be bolstered by details of the firm's income tax records later today.

RADIUM DEATHS IN NEWARK ARE ENDED

NEWARK, N. J., June 28.—(UP)

Dr. Harrison Martland, the pathologist who is credited with the discovery that certain radium watch dial painters were victims of poisoning, today consulted his "book of doom" and expressed the belief that there would be no more deaths from the radium emanations.

"There are still about 30 affected," he said, "but they have such a small quantity of radium in their systems that I don't believe it will give them any serious trouble."

The last victim of the dreaded affliction was Miss Katherine Schaub, who died a few months ago from a sarcoma resulting from the infection. Her death brought the total number of fatalities among the radium watch dial workers to 23.

Wintersburg

WINTERSBURG, June 28.—Mr. and Mrs. Bill Gardner, who are residing in the Moore tract in one of the Hummich houses have taken the house in Wintersburg owned by Miss Ethel Dwyer. A family party including Mr. and Mrs. Bill Gardner, former mother, Mrs. David Gardner, and sisters, the Misses Geraldine and Andrea Gardner, motored to Beaumont, Sunday to attend the cherry festival.

Mrs. Ira DeBusk and baby were brought Tuesday from Orange County hospital and are for the time being at the parsonage home of the Rev. and Mrs. W. A. Matson as Billy DeBusk has measles at the family home. Mr. DeBusk is packing fruit at Lindsey and his family will join him there later.

Mr. and Mrs. Mills Cowling and members of their family attended the county pioneers' picnic at Irvine park Sunday.

Chartering a fishing boat at Newport Harbor, a group of 22 men and boys from this community spent an enjoyable day plying Dana Point, returning with a fine catch. M. J. P. Heil caught a yellowtail 3-1 1/2 inches in length.

In the party were John Murdy and son, John Jr.; W. A. Matson, Ralph Clay, William Slater, George Harding, Norman Harding, Vernon Heil, M. J. P. Heil, Chester Heil, Brooks Lucas, Roscoe Bradbury, John Peterson, Harry Letson, T. J. Holt, Raymond Holt, Raymond Beem, C. E. Worthy, P. J. Worthy, Armand Heil and Armand Heil.

NEW BOOKS IN PUBLIC LIBRARY

Many startling changes have been brought to the world of science in the last few years. Sir James Jeans, Einstein, and Sir Arthur Eddington have made discoveries that have changed scientific viewpoint radically.

Sir Arthur Eddington has been Plurimarian Professor of Astronomy at Cambridge University for the last twenty years. He is also director of the Observatory at Cambridge. Many honors have been conferred upon him; in 1925 he was awarded the Royal Medal of the Royal Society for outstanding achievement in the field of science. His writings, especially "The Nature of the Physical World" have aroused wide discussion. In his new book "The Expanding Universe," he gives more of the discoveries of his long life in science.

In this book, Sir Arthur Eddington suggests that the whole material universe of stars and galaxies is dispersing. The galaxies are scattering apart so as to occupy an ever increasing volume. "But," he says, "I deal with it not as an end in itself. To take an analogy from detective fiction, it is the clue not the criminal. The hidden hand in my story is the cosmical constant. In Chapter IV we see that the investigation of the expanding universe falls in line with other methods of inquiry, so that we appear to be closing down on the capture of this most elusive constant of nature."

The subject is of especial interest, since it lies at the meeting point of astronomy, relativity, and wave mechanics. This changing world of science offers magnificent opportunities for success to qualified workers. For some, fortune and fame will be achieved in this field. Hence, for the college student, or the prospective student, science courses hold great attraction. In "Jobs for the College Graduate in Science" by Edward J. v. K. Menge answers questions of vital importance to anyone interested in a career in the field of science.

Graduates of college science courses often find themselves not fitted for the very position at which they have been aiming. This fact is due to the confusion existing even among those who should know, as to exactly what is needed for the different scientific workers. What are the opportunities for a career in science? What courses are required and which will be useful? What sort of financial returns may be expected and do they come immediately or only after years of hard work?

This book answers all these questions. It tells the prospective student what personal characteristics he needs for different positions and just what courses to take. The book, as its name shows, is primarily a guide to possible positions for science graduates, and in this regard the data are complete. Salary, working conditions, chances for advancement, and all pertinent details are given.

The material in this book has been gathered from colleges, universities, employment agencies, and public scientific institutions all over the country. As such, it covers the field completely and is authoritative in every regard.

According to Arthur Kallet and F. J. Schlink, "Pure Food" laws do not protect. In their hard-hitting book "100,000,000 Guinea Pigs," these two technical experts show that the consumer is not protected. Many widely advertised foods and drugs (and also cosmetics) contain deadly poisons. Others are absolutely worthless for the purposes advertised. Dangerous bacteria in antiseptics; germicides that don't kill germs; a common breakfast food that to many is a powerful intestinal irritant; poisons in a dozen common cosmetics; and poisonous preservatives still in common foods, just as in the days of 1906, when the "pure" food law was passed; substantial other daily endangering lives of patients in major operations in dozens of hospitals; federal, state, and completely to protect the consumers of food and drugs—these are a few of the revelations made in "100,000,000 Guinea Pigs."

According to the authors, some of the most widely advertised, most skillfully touted, most assiduously promoted foods and "cures" contain injurious and even poisonous ingredients. As a rule no action is taken, except occasionally when a sufficiently dramatic death occurs to force the hands of the authorities. It is noteworthy that only one person has ever served a jail sentence for violating the Food and Drugs Act.

The wholesale promotion of "cure" that actually are poison is only one of the abuses brought to light in this electric and solidly sensational volume. It is destined to create the same nation-wide interest as did the facts set forth while Santa Barbara voted 4 to 1 wet.

GAMBLING AND LIQUOR WIN IN STATE ELECTION

In other metropolitan centers realists amassed overwhelming majorities. San Francisco, traditionally wet, voted 16 to 1 for repeal. Sacramento voted 9 to 1 for, and Fresno, heart of the grape-growing industry, was 4 to 1 for repeal.

Heated Campaign

Because of the paradoxical views of southern and northern California, both repealists and prohibitionists conducted extensive campaigns. These, coupled with the bitter issue of pari-mutuel racing and the various taxation and financial programs, brought out a vote estimated today at more than 1,550,000, an unprecedented number for a special election.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 28.—(UP)—United Press returns from 7786 of California's 9347 precincts in the special state election gave:

Repeal yes 869,537, no 267,646; No. 1, taxation, yes 539,338, no 378,748; No. 2, unemployment bonds, yes 795,115, no 245,562; No. 3, legalizing pari-mutuel racing, yes 629,672, no 377,499; No. 4, exempt taxation non-profit schools, yes 420,347, no 603,900; No. 5, earthquake assessments, yes 633,229, no 253,802; No. 6, irrigation bonds, yes 351,558, no 502,159; No. 7, legalize legislative acts, yes 567,416, no 199,329; No. 8, regulate compensation county officials, yes 639,619, no 263,605; No. 9, divert gas tax, yes 265,025; No. 67,833; No. 10, divert gas tax, yes 244,320, no 692,146.

Death Notices

A WORD OF COMFORT
God is not a mighty potentate whose ears are dull to your pleadings. He is a loving Father, whose heart aches when you suffer, even though He knows that on the morrow you will be dried and that you will enter into the intimate companionship with your dearest ones which used to make life on earth joyous in spite of perplexities, hardship and pain. Ask Him for courage and strength and never doubt His love.

SAN DIEGO TRIO INVOLVED IN ORANA WRECK

Three San Diego motorists were seriously injured and taken to the Orange County hospital at 7:45 this morning after a spectacular accident between a large Motor Transit bus and a small sedan at the corner of North Main street and Chapman avenue at Orana.

James E. Roth, 38, 3652 India street, San Diego, driver of the small car, his wife, Mrs. Mary E. Roth, 45, and Mrs. Mary Duffy, 70, 2130 India street, San Diego, were rushed to the hospital after the wreck, where the two women are in a serious condition from severe cuts, lacerations, and injuries about the head, shoulders and arms. Roth was given first aid treatment and released. L. L. McDonald, 47, 3511 Arroyo Seco, Los Angeles, driver of the stage, is reported to have slowed down for the intersection and was unable to avoid the Roth car when it was driven directly in front of the bus. The driver said he believed that Roth started to stop then tried to speed across the intersection ahead of the bus. The small car was a total wreck, but the stage was not badly damaged. Two women and three Mexicans riding in the bus were unhurt and McDonald escaped unhurt. A small dog in the Roth automobile was thrown clear of the wreck and was not hurt. The two women were rushed to the hospital by passing motorists but Roth remained at the scene of the wreck in a slightly dazed condition. When State Highway Officer Floyd Yoder arrived, he immediately ordered Roth taken to the hospital for first aid treatment. The wrecked automobile came to a stop from the impact directly in front of a garage and was stored there until Roth makes other arrangements. The San Diego man was en route from the southern city to Lodi while McDonald was driving his regular run from Los Angeles to Santa Ana by way of Orange. He was not held after the crash.

Arrest Brea Man For Non Support

Ray Estrata, 25, oil worker living on the Union Oil lease in Brea, was arrested and booked at the county jail this last night on a charge of non-support of minor children.

Judge Charles Kuchel of Anaheim issued the warrant on June 23 to arrest Estrata, who was brought to Santa Ana by Deputy Sheriff Art Ellis and E. E. Perry.

LEMON GROWERS TO VISIT BIG RANCH PERMITS TO BE REQUIRED IN FOREST AREAS

Both tree and soil management will be featured during an afternoon field tour and demonstration meeting that have been arranged for lemon growers of Orange county tomorrow afternoon by the Farm Advisor's office and the management of the Leffingwell Rancho, Whittier. It was announced today by Harold E. Wahlberg, farm advisor, Wahlberg added that several plots will be visited to show the response of pruning, irrigation and fertilization methods upon pruning.

All growers interested are invited to meet at the office of the Leffingwell Rancho at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. The ranch is located about two miles west of the Orange county and Los Angeles county line on the 101 State Highway.

PROSECUTION IN BRIBE CASE NEARING CLOSE

Testimony damaging to the prosecution of William Tremaine, veteran La Habra-Brea constable, charged with accepting a bribe, was brought out today in cross examination of Mrs. Angelita Telles, of Corona Camp, prosecution witness, by Defense Attorney C. N. Moxley, who forced the witness to admit that on a visit to the district attorney's office, she had told her son, an 18 year old youth, that she had never received any money for delivery to Tremaine, the accused officer. The latter is being tried before Superior Judge James L. Allen and a jury in department two.

Mrs. Telles neutralized the effect of her unwilling admission, however, by adding that her statement to her son was not the truth, and that she had made it because she was ashamed of her part in the affair.

On direct examination by the prosecution, Mrs. Telles, now being held at the county jail as an accomplice to the alleged bribery, said that she had known the accused officer for about five and six years. Questioned further, she told of a meeting that took place at her home, attended by Maria D'Aro and Callisto Ybarra, at which Tremaine was present. Pressed for details as to any money transaction, she testified as having received $25 for delivery to the accused, which amount, she added, was turned over to him when the witness and the officer were alone in the Telles residence.

Mrs. Guadalupe Alvarez, wife of Jesus Alvarez, the latter a brother of Jose Alvarez on whose behalf the alleged attempt of bribery took place, testified that Tremaine came to their place and wanted to return the money he had received. Attempts on the part of defense witnesses to show by the witness' own admissions that she entertained unfriendly feelings toward the accused because the latter had arrested members of her family, were unsuccessful, the witness stating that there was no reason why she should harbor any ill feelings toward the officer on that account.

Consuelo Cortez said that she had arranged for a meeting between Tremaine and members of the Alvarez family for the purpose of discussing the case resting against Jose Alvarez, charged with assault. She denied any knowledge of the real purpose of the meeting or any contemplated money transaction.

Belief was entertained today that the prosecution will complete its case this afternoon, following which the defense will put on its witnesses.

MARY F. ROWELL CALLED BY DEATH

Mrs. Mary F. Rowell, 87, resident of Santa Ana for the past 35 years, died at her home, 2014 Bush street, today following an extended illness.

She is survived by her daughter, Mrs. Jannette Terwilliger, of the same address, and a son, Arthur B. Rowell of Amherst, Mass. Notice of funeral services will be held at a date to be announced later by the Smith and Tutill Funeral home.

vation camp is operating at full swing now, Longacre said, with several large crews out on the job building firebreaks, fire protection roads, telephone lines and other fire prevention equipment. Special training is being given to the crews in the camp so they can act as trained fire fighters in case fire breaks out. Practically all of the enlisted men in Silverado camp are Kentucky residents and have shown a high interest in the type of work being done for the protection of the water shed, Longacre said.

There are 23 Orange county men in the camp who have been chosen for special work in connection with the work being done in addition to the CCC quota. The Silverado camp is located at the mouth of Modjeska canyon and is favorably situated from a standpoint of the work being carried on as well as for an ideal camp site, the forest ranger added.

COUNTY C. OF C. IN MEET TONIGHT

Bruce W. McDaniels, Redlands, will be the featured speaker at the regular monthly meeting of the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Orange county tonight at 6:30 o'clock in McFarland's cafe, Fullerton.

The speaker will discuss problems of securing federal loans for Orange county ranchers. Other important matters of business are expected to come up for discussion. The meeting was postponed from last night because of the election.

NEW HEARING SCHEDULED IN SHOOTING CASE

Mrs. J. Gordon Bennett, charged with her husband for assault with a deadly weapon with intent to commit murder, was released today on her own recognizance and the preliminary hearing in the case involving the shooting of Homer P. Neyhard in Trabuco canyon on June 8 was continued until July 20.

Neyhard, still recovering in St. Joseph's hospital from gunshot wounds received in the shooting affair in his canyon cabin, was unable to attend the hearing, so a physician's certificate was presented to Judge John Landell of San Juan Capistrano at the hearing this morning. Neyhard is able to be up for a short time each day, but cannot be moved from the hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Bennett have been held in the county jail since their arrest after the shooting, which occurred on June 8. They are held under bail of $10,000 property bond or $5000 bail. Bennett has confessed that he shot Neyhard, but pleads self-defense, claiming that the Long Beach oil worker and Mrs. Bennett were in the cabin together.

Yoder On Program Of Police School

Floyd G. Yoder, officer of the California highway patrol, will be the speaker tomorrow night at 7:30 o'clock at the fourth session of the Santa Ana Police school to be held in the city court in the Santora building.

All peace officers of Orange county have been invited to attend the meeting and hear Yoder discuss the "California Vehicle Act."

MIDWAY CITY

MIDWAY CITY, June 28.—Mrs. Russell I. Johnson attended a reunion of a class in Alhambra recently. She was accompanied to Alhambra by Mrs. John Stone, who visited friends for the day.

Mrs. Mary Arnett is spending several weeks in the home of her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Verne Hodge, at Winchester. Mr. and Mrs. M. J. P. Hill and children were at Trabuco canyon over the week-end.

Former local residents, Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Shaw and young daughter, of Los Angeles, who for 11 months last year were staying at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Hart, were visitors here Sunday. Mrs. Hart and Mrs. Shaw are sisters.

Motoring to the West Orange home of Mr. and Mrs. Knight, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Wilson and Mrs. Emma Flagg were entertained as dinner guests Sunday. Saturday evening, Mr. and Mrs. Wilson visited in the Crosby home in Santa Ana and one evening they were hosts to E. E. Leith and Miss Amy Leith at their Van Buren street home.

Mrs. George Luff has been ill at her home. Mrs. B. F. Heath, who has been quite ill is reported as improved. Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Whitacre, who have occupied the former, S. E. Davies house, have moved to the house recently vacated by Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Johnson.

FAMOUS PILOTS ARRIVE IN L. A. FOR AIR RACES

Planes and pilots from all sections of the world are arriving daily and rehearsals are being held each day at the Los Angeles Municipal Airport for the National Air Races which will run for four days starting Saturday, according to Dale Decker, chairman of the aviation committee of the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce.

Tickets to the Los Angeles event are being handled by Decker and can be obtained at 106 West Fourth street and 210 North Sycamore street.

A number of sensational "mytery models," shipped and trucked cross-country, are being assembled and warmed up for their gruelling tests, and the performances of these craft are a special attraction to the "pre-view" customers.

Internationally famous pilots who have arrived already, and will send their planes through practice spins during the week, include Major Ernst Udet, Germany's noted acrobatic ace, Lieut. Tito Falconi, Italy's champion stunt pilot, Gordon Israel and Ben O. Howard, aerial speed kings, of St. Louis and Kansas City, respectively, and Art Chester of Joliet, Illinois.

Israel, Howard and Chester are flying planes of their own design, especially for the National Air Races, and all three have been consistent prize winners in previous year's events.

Barbara Stanwyck In Prison Story

Barbara Stanwyck, recently elected the "First Lady of the Screen" in a fan poll conducted by the Chicago Tribune, is the star of a most unusual Warner Bros. picture, "Ladies They Talk About," which opens at Walker's state theater today.

It is a story of women in prison—of their lives—their thoughts—their hopes and loves, written by a woman who was sentenced to San Quentin prison in California, and whose experiences while serving her time, have been made into this movie.

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

-- News Behind the News --

WASHINGTON
By Paul Mallon

PROGRAM

Mr. Roosevelt has his mind fixed on the next three steps. You will probably see them work out in the following order:

1. Delay of currency stabilization, tariff reform and other international panaceas.
2. Concentration on a two-point test program at home, the two points being the Industrial Control set-up and the Farm Control Bill.
3. Withholding such inflationary moves as a dollar revaluation for at least two months to see how the No. 2 step works out.

This is the definite program now being passed around the inner circle. It is meeting with acclaim.

The boys at the top privately believe there is a very good chance that the industrial control plan will work out well. They are doubtful about the farm program. They will not say so publicly because they do not want to embarrass the set-up, but that is their firm private conviction.

They see the industrial regime redistributing the national income. That sounds like something Huey Long advocates, but it is not. It means only that the short-hour day and work week with limited profits and trade agreements will spread the purchasing power to larger numbers.

Some of Mr. Roosevelt's trusted economists privately believe we may pull out without using the present program to its fullest. Business generates new business, going uphill as well as it did go. The economic snowball gets larger going down. Every man going back to work helps put five other men to work when he spends his new salary.

That is probably an optimistic view. The general inner supposition is that something like revaluation of the dollar will be needed later. You will know in about two months.

There is no guarantee against Mr. Roosevelt changing his mind. He does it frequently. He will do it again if he sees commodity prices falling off.

You can follow the inner barometer of this administration by watching the commodity markets. The stock market is not of prime importance. The foodstuffs, textile and raw material markets are. Everything will sail smoothly along existing lines as long as those markets are in good shape. You will see things starting to happen when they fall off.

DEBTS

Our officials still comment off the record about what a cheap trick it was for England to take advantage of the silver loophole in her partial debt payment. They expected something like that from some other nations, but not proud England.

It saved her around two million of dollars, but it cost her more than that in prestige with those who count in the administration. You will never know what pressure France exerted in Europe to make other nations default on their war debts.

She did not try to influence Great Britain or Italy, but she bore down hard on the inside with the smaller countries. Her game obviously was to get as many in the defaulting boat with her as she could. One of those which felt such pressure was Finland. She paid no attention to it. She paid.

Our officials have heard confidentially about the matter. It has not diminished their ill-feeling against France.

BARUCH

A certain chain newspaper publisher wired his Washington men to hit hard the story about Baruch being inserted in Moley's shoes.

The Washington boys took the order literally. They hit Baruch with everything but the lamp posts. They deplored, denounced and derided his appointment.

The publisher nearly collapsed when he read the story in his own newspaper. It appears that his "hit hard" meant that he wanted to give Baruch a big hand. His long distance telephone bill ran almost to the thousands. Apologies were offered Baruch.

More explicit orders will be issued hereafter.

WHEAT

The colored gentleman in the world wheat bin is France.

Our officials can see that smiling face behind the objections the Danubian nations are making to the 15 per cent wheat reduction. Marianne controls policy to a certain extent in these small nations. The experts here have little hope that an effective agreement can be reached. At least special European marketing privileges must be given to the objectors.

FRONT

There was nothing sudden about State Secretary Hull deciding to return to Washington. Or about Professor Moley going abroad. That switch had been planned for weeks on the inside, as forecast in this column.

When it came the rumors naturally started that Hull was to retire.

There will be nothing to them until Hull has decided he is fed up. The situation has not changed except that the public knows more about it. Hull continues to be the international front man; Moley the nationalist background.

NOTES

J. P. Morgan's personal hero is Lindbergh. He has been taking care of Lindbergh's personal affairs since the day the aviator landed in Paris. That may be one reason why Lindbergh is financially able to donate his home as a child welfare center.

Woodin's friends are denying the rumors that he will retire, because he has leased a house here. That is an old stunt. The last time it was worked was when Mr. Hoover's secretary, George Akeron, stopped rumors about his retirement with a lease. He jumped into the movie game weeks later. The trick is nearly all leases in Washington carry what is known as the Army-Navy clause. It authorizes cancellation if the business of the lessee takes him out of town.

NEW YORK By James McMullin REPUBLICANS

The Republicans took the first step on their comeback campaign last week.

Chairman Everett Sanders called an important meeting of leaders in New York. The old guard was in the saddle. Such grizzled political veterans as Hiles of New York and Roraback of Connecticut were more than among those present.

The meeting decided that industrial control was the most likely Democratic Achilles' heel. Every move will be watched for signs of chinks in the armor.

The plan is to rally conservatives to the old battle-cry that the government is interfering with private initiative. The boys are too wise to start anything yet. But they will be busy from now on gathering ammunition to shoot in next year's Congressional campaign.

They rate these tactics the best hope of rising from the ashes.

SPRAGUE

Prof. O. H. W. Sprague comes mighty close to being a dictator of national policy on credit and currency matters. New York understands that he has been given extraordinary authority over Treasury and Federal Reserve decisions.

FEDERAL RESERVE

There is another reason for the recall of Governor Harrison of the New York Federal Reserve bank beyond the report that he exceeded his instructions at London. The Glass bill—which was signed while he was over there—provides that a Federal Reserve officer must submit a detailed written report to the Reserve Board of any negotiations he carries on with foreign banks. This part of the measure was a slap at the New York bank—which has been accustomed to going its own sweet way in dealing with London and Paris.

But the point in the present case is that a written report on confidential negotiations—placed where some obstreperous senator might demand a look at it—would not be a good thing to have lying around.

STRATEGY

Our London strategy continues to make those who thought we were suckers for European wiles look silly. The statement of the U. S. delegation against temporary stabilization was designed to leave our hands free and at the same time pass the buck back to the French for blocking the conference. It worked.

The talk you hear that we would be willing to stabilize at $4.40 to the pound is pure eye-wash. There isn't a chance in a million that the British would agree to any such figure, and nobody knows it better than the people who started the report.

HULL

Informed New Yorkers sympathize with Cordell Hull for having been given the works in so smooth a way. Those who are aware of the administration's program cannot see any other solution than his eventual resignation as Secretary of State. No one will ask him to resign, but he has been delftly surrounded in a manner which insures his usefulness. His low tariff policies don't jibe with the needs of domestic inflation.

MITCHELL

The acquittal of Charles E. Mitchell knocks the props from under the government's campaign against income tax evasion and lifts a ton of brick from the necks of some fifty Wall streeters. No matter what is said for the record, there will be no more income tax prosecutions along those lines. Max Steuer is given credit for two astute moves. One was the selection of a jury of solid citizens who probably don't like the income tax themselves. The other was stringing the trial along for weeks until the original resentment against Mitchell wore off. People close to Steuer say he believes the verdict two weeks earlier would have been certain conviction.

The decision may have far-reaching effects. It was the first definite defeat the government has sustained in the courts. This has had a marked effect on certain Wall streeters who have watched their steps pretty carefully up to now. It has hurt the government's prestige among its detractors, and you can expect to see them take more chances.

RAILS

The railroads are jubilant at the extension of the 10 per cent wage cut. It was a bigger victory than they had dared to hope for. It gives them a nine months' break on present costs while the rest of industry is raising wages. They still can't figure how it happened. The advance dog was all the other way. The answer is that the government didn't want the Recovery program marred by prolonged hickering. The roads would have fought any action to compel them to restore wages now.

The unions were privately told they could have their old wages back when the grace period expires. That kept them quiet.

Railroad earnings for May, June and July are likely to show some startling advances in net operating income. Most of the large roads will cover interest charges by a good margin. If the carloadings trend continues it will be back to the 1931 level by September. (Copyright, 1933, McClure Newspaper Synd.)

S. P. FARES CUT TO 2 CENTS PER MILE

Taking the lead in a move to cut the cost of rail travel, the Southern Pacific Company has received permission from the Interstate Commerce Commission and various state commissions for authority to establish a basic one-way coach fare of two cents a mile, a reduction of 45 per cent from the present first-class rate.

Announcement of the company's action was made yesterday by E. B. Sharkey, S. P. representative in Santa Ana, who also stated that the two-cent-a-mile fare will be accepted for transportation in tourist sleepers.

The low fares become effective July 1 between all station on the railroad's lines in six western states, it was revealed. The plan provides for a 90-day experimental period, with the intention of making the reduction permanent if warranted by increased patronage.

Newspapers Carry Major Advertising In Gilmore Drive

One of the most spectacular merchandising campaigns in the history of the southwest was launched yesterday by General Petroleum corporation in connection with the initial public offering of its new motor fuel, General Four-Star gasoline.

"Eight years ago, General Petroleum launched an active campaign when it first entered the Pacific coast field," R. S. King, vice president and general sales manager, said yesterday. "Public reception and endorsement of its products at that time were phenomenal, and it is anticipated that the present campaign will be even more successful.

"Newspaper space will carry the major part of the sales burden. General Petroleum, like other major industrial units, having proved to its own satisfaction that there is no substitute for newspaper advertising. All other elements in the campaign will tie in with the newspaper effort."

The total front in the World War was approximately 400 miles long. American troops held about 25 per cent of it.

CINDERELLA'S SLIPPER

"But when the prince's messenger placed the glass slipper on Cinderella's foot, it fitted like wax."

IN EACH PAST DEPRESSION, real estate has played the role of Cinderella...first looked down upon by many as a despised investment drudge...but finally recognized as the "fairest of the fair"...the most basic and tangible of all investments.

During a panic, investors are blind to everything except the glitter of quick convertibility. And since real estate cannot always be turned into cash on the instant, they are prone to overlook its far more important qualities...the fact that good property shrinks less in value than most securities; and that well selected real estate is a most dependable income producer.

But let sanity return. Let the measure of fundamental worth be again applied. And that measure is seen to fit good real property like Cinderella's slipper.

Renewed Demand
Now consider what has always happened to real estate with the advent of general business recovery. The prospect of rising prices in every field makes cash less desirable, but tangible assets more desirable. Naturally, many investors hasten to protect their capital by putting it into the most tangible of all assets...good real property.

At the same time, business acceleration raises wages, salaries and personal incomes. And many families that have crowded together to cut living costs are again able to expand into separate homes.

Thus improved conditions have invariably created among both investors and home-seekers a renewed demand for good real estate. Cinderella the drudge has again been recognized as Cinderella the reigning beauty. And today, there are indications that history is to be repeated.

Continuing Interest and Basic Protection

Underlying Pacific States Savings is the security of well selected real property...largely homes, located in the most populous districts of a state which has long led the nation in sound growth. Throughout the depression, these assets continued to afford our savers continuous interest and basic protection. And with each day of reflation, the protective strength of these assets must inevitably increase.

$923,522 IN REAL ESTATE TRANSACTIONS DURING MAY

With offices throughout California, Pacific States Savings' experience provides a good barometer of real estate activity. It is significant, therefore, that during May, Pacific States Savings sold 144 properties at an aggregate selling price of $923,522 without loss to the institution.

Cameron, Calvin Shores, Wendell Finley, Glenn Rathbun, Clarence L. McWilliams, Howard McVain, Ferris Scott, and the Misses Hazel Guilbert, Virginia Berry, Dorothy E. Mayhew, Annie Laughlin, Nettie Jones and Nan Mead. Howard McVain was in charge of the program for the evening.

DOG AND HORSE RACES SLATED AT SEAL BEACH

A dog and horse racing plant to cost $250,000 is scheduled to be erected at Seal Beach following approval given the pari-mutuel amendment by the voters Tuesday.

Col. John Berger, of Hollywood, announced recently that if the measure was approved that work would begin at once on the proposed plant.

The Seal Beach city council is scheduled to meet July 6. At that time the council will give final reading to an ordinance giving Berger and associates, operating as the Seal Beach Jockey club, permission to operate horse and dog races.

According to Berger, the establishment will cost in the neighborhood of $250,000, with $50,000 of that amount for the dog plant. The tract of land located at the northeast corner of Coast boulevard and Bay boulevard is under tentative lease.

CONFERENCE ON FEDERAL LOANS HELD THURSDAY

Direct negotiations with federal authorities on the matter of securing Orange county loans for municipal projects under the national public works bill will be made tomorrow night when mayors and supervisors of the county attend a dinner meeting at the Hayward hotel, Los Angeles.

A well known Orange county man will probably receive the appointment as federal coordinator for the states of California and Nevada, it was revealed today. The announcement is expected to be made today and the new official will be present at the meeting to discuss county projects with the mayors.

Paul Witmer, of Santa Ana, chairman of the mayors' committee of the Orange County League of Municipalities, announced today that Willard Smith, president of the board of supervisors, and William Jerome, Santa Ana's supervisor, and perhaps the three other county officials would be invited to attend the banquet.

It was first planned to combine the county projects and have the State Chamber of Commerce take charge of the application. With the announcement of the new move, the county representatives, it is believed that quicker action will be secured.

Santa Ana will seek $150,000 from the program to build a city hall and library. The city also is applying for a similar amount from the earthquake relief funds and will select one of the plans when more favorable information is secured.

REV. TINSLEY IN STATEMENT ON ELECTION

FULLERTON, June 28.—"Those who have favored and have worked for the return of liquor in our community will have a heavy responsibility on their shoulders in the regulating and controlling of traffic," the Rev. George Tinsley said this morning, following election returns showing that Fullerton, after having been dry since 1906, has voted to return the licensed liquor saleroom.

The Rev. Mr. Tinsley has been vitally interested in the keeping of Fullerton dry. As pastor of the Christian church, and as an active member of the Citizens' Dry committee, he has expended much energy in placing an educational campaign before citizens. Since wet campaigners at the start predicted Fullerton would go five to one wet, when it actually went less than one to five, he felt the campaign had had definite results.

"We of the dry forces will not relent our efforts and will not be lacking in energy but those who have actually spent energy for the wet cause and have worked hard for getting beer back, have on their shoulders the heaviest responsibility," he said. They have taken the responsibility on themselves, and it behooves them to watch carefully.

"We who have been fighting the cause of maintaining the dry ordinances have been as interested in the youth of those who have fought the wet fight as we have in the youth of those who have fought with us, and we remain unchanged in our attitude of guardianship of youth."

POWERS GIVEN ROOSEVELT ENABLE HIM TO CHANGE PRICES PAID, HOURS WORKED

By RODNEY DUTCHER
(Register Washington Correspondent)
WASHINGTON, June 27.—Roosevelt not only has been given greater power than any other president ever had. He even has greater power than Mr. J. P. Morgan.

And there's no escape for any standard—as he has imposed a gold embargo and jail citizens who refuse to give up their own gold.

Reorganize the government, abolish bureaus and federal jobs, exert almost complete power over federal expenses and fix with a wide degree of discretion the pay-ments to veterans and their dependents.

Cut the gold value of the dollar by as much as one-half, issue billions of paper money and order Federal Reserve banks to buy $3,000,000,000 of government bonds.

Huge Relief Fund

Repudiate government promises to pay its obligations in gold.

Put the government into the power business at Muscle Shoals. Regulate private securities and drive out dishonest dealers in stocks and bonds.

Prevent the Morgan and other banks from dealing in stocks. Distribute $500,000,000 in direct distress relief funds and $3,300,000,000 for public works.

Exert new federal powers over the railroads.

Spend $250,000,000 or more on reforestation camps.

Controls Postal Rates

Cancel existing ocean and air mail contracts.

Pour out billions of dollars to finance bonus and farm mortgages. Create free employment agencies in states which haven't any.

Increase and decrease postal rates.

Disband civil service laws in choosing personnel for the various new bureaus and administrations. Raise tariffs and restrict imports.

And do various other little things.

Another type of chicken to dispose of now, he said, is the one that lays but two or three eggs a week. Sick birds also should be removed from the flock, he added.

LOCK DEMONSTRATION

A convincing demonstration as to how locks give security is shown this week in the window of Al's Lock and Key shop, 305 North Sycamore street, it was announced today by Al Jasper, proprietor. This week only, a $500 factory model pin tumbler lock will be shown in operation in the window of the store. This is the first time the demonstration has ever been staged in Santa Ana, Jasper said.

CLASSES ARE HELD FOR POULTRYMEN

Discussing the subject of pullets and how to handle them, as well as poultry diseases, Professor Krum will give a lecture at 8 o'clock tonight at the S. J. Hales establishment, 2415 West Fifth street, it was announced today.

All interested poultry raisers were invited to attend the meeting, which is one of a series being held. At the last meeting the speaker discussed culling poultry.

He pointed out that now is the time to dispose of hens which are not paying their keep, describing the cull as a hen which lays from five to seven months of the year. Hens that moult their feathers and stop laying now will be out of the Garden of Gethsemane.

PROVISIONS OF CAN USE ANY NEW MORTGAGE KIND OF SUGAR LAW EXPLAINED FOR JELLIES

A summary of Senate Bill No. 7 containing all of the changes made this year in the trust deed and mortgage law is contained in a news letter just issued by the Security Title Insurance and Guarantee company.

The new bill required that a copy of the notice of default and of the notice of sale be mailed by registered letter to the borrower in every case and to every other person who records a request for such notice.

It provides that where the principal sum of a note secured by a mortgage or deed of trust hereafter executed has been accelerated by reason of non-payment of money items, the borrower shall have the right to reinstate the loan by paying only the items actually in default.

The measure limits the trustee's or attorney's fees and the amount a borrower can be charged as the court may find reasonable and prohibits deficiency judgments which may be obtained after the exercise of the power of sale to the difference between the fair value of the property at the time of sale and the amount due on the debt.

It also requires that any action for a deficiency judgment must be brought within three months of the time of sale or be barred; and prohibits the rendering of a judgment against the borrower on an obligation secured by a deed of trust or mortgage with the power of sale until the security has first been exhausted.

Can the modern woman, in cities, make jams and jellies as good as mother did? That is a question which will be settled by Friday noon when the Alpha Beta markets Jam and jelly making contest closes, according to Lars Hanson, store official.

All jelly and jam to be entered in the contest must be made at home and delivered to any of the Alpha Beta markets or the Orange County Market on South Main street before 11:30 a. m. Friday. Judging will take place at the Orange County Market at 3:30 p. m. the same day.

Margaret Stroum, director of the home service department of the Southern Counties Gas company, with Mrs. Ruth Jellis and Mrs. Harriet Mitchell, will act as judges, Hanson announced.

Contest officials today said that the kind or plant-origin of sugar, whether beet or cane, has nothing to do with the success or failure in jelly-making. To make jelly the fruit juice must contain pectin and acid.

Many valuable prizes are being offered to winners of the contest. Jellies and jams entered in the contest will be turned over to the Women's Auxiliary, which will sell part of them and give the balance to veterans at Sawtelle hospital.

Opportunity

Diminished consumption of products has led American business firms into an insane competition for volume of sales. If, instead of trying to increase volume, which, in view of the smaller public demand for goods, can be achieved only by taking business away from a competitor, often at a financial loss, firms would devote their resources and energies with the same intensive effort to increasing consumption, business recovery will be speedier. Such is the aim of the Standard Oil Company of California.

Here is the AAA Report. Read it: "This is to certify that we, the Contest Board of the American Automobile Association, have conducted a series of tests on Standard Gasoline, manufactured by Standard Oil Company of California, for comparative acceleration efficiency under actual road conditions, in comparison with six other gasolines considered to be of leading brands. On the basis of these tests, we find Standard Gasoline is unsurpassed in ACCELERATION.

Each of the seven fuels tested was purchased by our representative in the open market from regular consumer outlets and was identifiable during the tests by code name known only to us.

All tests were conducted by us under carefully controlled conditions of operation, in a 1933 stock model sedan, on the Oakland Speedway, in accordance with the rules and policies of the Contest Board of the AAA. This statement is based on data developed by and on file with the AAA Contest Board."

BIBLE SCHOOL RECORDS GAIN IN ATTENDANCE

ORANGE, June 28.—A gain is being made daily in the enrollment at the Daily Vacation Bible school, according to those in charge of the work. The enrollment this week was 275 as compared with 248 last week.

In the intermediate department, speakers give talks each morning, today's speaker being W. J. Sutherland, who spoke on "China," this country furnishing the theme of the week's study.

The Rev. J. S. Sorenson of the Mennonite church spoke Monday on "Being Workers With God" and a prelude was played on the violin by Grace Marie Sorenson, while Margaret Bottorff led the devotional service and Eleanor Schmidt gave the call to worship.

Tuesday the Rev. Franklin H. Minck spoke to the students on "God in the Schools" and Ruth Goode played the prelude.

Thursday Mrs. R. W. Jones will speak on "Graciousness" and Rachel Goode will play the prelude.

The students are working on a Noah's ark project and on wall hangings and scrapbooks.

The exhibit of work of all the departments is to be held July 15 at the First Presbyterian church with a program in the evening and the exhibit opening in the afternoon.

ORANGE PERSONALS

ORANGE, June 28.—Mr. and Mrs. Warren Case, of 339 South Clark street, returned the first of the week from a pleasant sojourn in their mountain cabin in Silverado canyon.

Walter Enoch is to give a talk on "Christian Unity" at the First Christian church at 7:30 o'clock tonight.

F. L. Ainsworth, of 542 East Chapman avenue, is visiting relatives in Portland in company with his daughters, Mrs. A. D. Burkett, of this city and Mrs. Newell F. Moore, of Garden Grove, and his grandsons, Ainsworth Burkett and Ainsworth Moore.

Miss Edith Cutler and Miss Lula Mae Evans, of East Maple street, have left for Strawberry Flats, where they will spend several days.

Mayor Clyde Watson spent today in Los Angeles on business.

Mr. and Mrs. David G. Wetlin spent the week end in San Clemente with friends.

Mrs. Louise Dittmer and son, Harold, are leaving this week for Yosemite, where they will spend several weeks. They are to be accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Emil Loeschner, of Richfield, and Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Scott, of Fullerton.

The condition of Henry Heinze, who underwent an operation at St. Joseph's hospital recently, is reported as satisfactory.

Mrs. G. A. Gates, of North Centule street, had an over-Sunday guest, her son, G. B. Gates, of Los Angeles.

The election day dinner at the First Methodist church was a successful event. Several hundred were present and Mrs. J. R. Kenyon was in charge.

Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Hemphill has returned from an extended trip to Zion National park, Boulder dam and other places of interest in that vicinity.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Wagner, and young son, Hal, of Main street, have moved to Balboa for the summer.

J. F. Campbell, West Chapman avenue, is able to be out again following a week's illness.

Mrs. Minnie Neville, 262 North Pine street, had an over Sunday guest, Miss Elois Hafford, of South Pasadena.

The next meeting of the W. C. T. U. will be held in the First Presbyterian church July 11.

Mayor Clyde Watson and Councilman A. H. Helm will be members of a party of fishermen leaving soon for Inyo county to spend a week.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Carpenter and daughter, Miss Frances Carpenter; Miss Ethel Ferec and Miss Maryann Cox have returned from a stay in the San Bernardino mountains.

Mrs. Sallie Riley and Mrs. Stephen McPherson spent the week end at Laguna Beach.

Week-end MURDER

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Amos Peabody, elderly cousin of Linda Averill, falls to his death from the second floor balcony of the Averill's Long Island home. Linda reaches him just before he dies. In time to hear him gasp a few words which convince her he was murdered. Linda rushes upstairs. Someone tries to strangle her and she faints.

There are four guests in the house—suspects of the crime. They are: Mr. Statlander, business associate of Tom Averill; Captain DeVos, handsome Belgian; Marvin Pratt, former suitor of Linda's; and Lian Shaughnessy, Irish writer. When Linda tells her husband what happened she persuades him they must keep these four men in the house until they can find out which one is guilty. There is no evidence sufficient for arrest. Tom and Linda are aided in their plan when Dr. Boyle, official medical examiner, sends word that everyone must remain until he has questioned them. Boyle is on a fishing trip and can not return for several hours.

Linda talks to Pratt who is noticeably suffering from strain. He gives her little information, asks curious questions about Cousin Amos and refuses to say why he murdered with him the night before the older man's death.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XXI

Looking after Marvin's retreating figure—retreating, perhaps, but in a manner more suggestive of a militant forward march—Linda was tempted to run after him and demand that he come back and tell her what really happened, answer her questions, listen to her protests. She did none of these things. Her glance traveled to the placid front of the big white house. She met the cold stare of its many windows and her mood of childish rage instantly vanished. "Murder....murder....murder!" the house seemed to say. She dropped into the wicker chair more from real weakness than from graceful yielding to the inevitable. She had sworn to penetrate that mystery. She had taken the first steps to do so. She hadn't begun to cover all the things Tom had mentioned—had she done any good at all?

She had leaved—or had she?—why Marvin had quarreled with Cousin Amos. It seemed incredible that the old man had actually taken it upon himself to reproach another guest for his attentions ("such as they were!") thought Linda disparagingly to his hostess. Yet that paternal touch was so like him—to mention that, her father being dead, he as an old relative—as if she weren't of age and able to take care of herself, to say nothing of having Tom! Yet Marvin had said Cousin Amos wanted to advise her! That hardly fitted in with this theory. The old man might have warned her or remonstrated with her over some too apparent intimacy, but what advice would he have given? Why that emphasis on their talking together?

"He was so anxious to find out," she slowly analyzed every word of Marvin's brief, confusing outburst, "whether Cousin Amos and I got together to talk something over at the dance. He wanted us not to talk about something. What? Was it that Cousin Amos blamed me for the supposed flirtation? Idiotic! But that wouldn't account for Marvin's being—not frightened, exactly. Apprehensive, that's the word. He most awfully didn't want us to get together and to compare notes. But that again isn't reasonable. What had he done that we could discuss that way? Did Cousin Amos know something?"

Linda gave herself a little shake. "Now I'm just reading things into what he said. Everyone knows Marvin's the high-minded sort of person. It must have been simply a call down over his way of focusing on me. Tom noticed it and I told him it was just Marvin's queer way. But Cousin Amos of course had to infer the worst—and go straight to the point with the wrong person."

She sighed. There had been good cause for Marvin's rage and his subsequent avoidance of her. She knew his fanatic standards of behavior. She could not imagine, thinking swiftly, any single suggestion that would so quickly, so surely, inflame him. Would it be to let him to murder? Perhaps not alone—but with something else, equally insulting—no, she really had no justification for imagining any other motive. Nor, probably, did she need one. This slur would as surely enrage Marvin as the idea that he was ungentlemanly would infuriate DeVos and that he was a social and mental inferior would hurt Shaughnessy. Uncanny Cousin Amos—to hit so surely at the weakness of each one. The special insult that would instantly drive him into that state of insane passion that might fairly be called madness—and murderous madness!

Again Linda sighed. They way of the detective was not easy. She was less a success than her first eagerness had assured her she would be. She knew—at least, she guessed—why Marvin might have killed Cousin Amos. But she preferred fact to guesswork. She did not know what had been said and certainly she had failed to find out the details of Marvin's actions last night and this morning. Then her spirits rose a little. After all, this was only Saturday afternoon. They had the rest of the day and Marvin could not avoid her indefinitely. Probably, when he was not so conscious of being alone with her, that abnormal constraint would relax enough to permit her to probe again into these dangerous subjects.

At present he had rankly deserted her—quite obviously strangled her on her own front lawn. She had hoped to prolong their talk until perhaps the Belgian returned. She wondered if Tom were making any progress, over their sales diagrams, with Statlander. If so, it would only hinder his probing if she were to join them. Well—she'd better get a book and make the best of it.

She rose and went up the soft grass. Nearing the house she walked more and more slowly. No, she was not exactly nervous but somehow there lay a deeper shadow there lay a deeper shadow there than should have been on the front terrace. The house seemed so silent, so ominously brooding. If she went in—Nonsense. It was her house, her home! Tom was inside, and what if he were not? She was often here alone all day, except for the maids, of course—

That thought turned her mind toward the faithful helpers in her kitchen.

She had not seen them since her hurried visit this morning and she wanted to speak to them now, to way they had stood by Tom and his express her appreciation of the mother earlier in the day. Rosie must be wondering, too, if anyone would be back for tea and Annie about dinner. Linda veered toward the dining room wing, walking along the soft turf without stepping on the gravel path.

At the very end of the house, where a decorative clump of bushes blocked sight of the door of the sunroom, she stopped. She could hardly have said why. But she realized that for a second or two she had subconsciously been aware of the murmur of voices and now they were very plain. She wondered idly what delivery boy had come so near the front of the house. He could not be by the kitchen door, for the voices would not then sound so near. Unless they were looking for her, Rosie or Annie seldom came around here. If they came from the service door it was usually to go toward the road or the garage.

The garage! At the association of ideas, her mind came back sharply to the moment. She became acutely aware of herself and her surroundings—and that low half-whispering so near. Except for it, the air fairly pulsed with sound. Leanness, this quiet, hot July afternoon on the deserted lawn. Then from her vantage point she heard a voice she could not mistake, deliberately thickened with an Irish brogue as rich as a stage comedian's. Shaughnessy—what was he doing there?

His voice rose coaxingly over the protest of a lighter one.

"Sure, an' ye'll give me another! What's one kiss but the first drop out of the sky with the whole of the rain to follow? Come, now—am I so obnoxious to ye?"

"Oh, but please, sir!" Rosie's voice and with an edge of something—could it be fear? Certainly it was not just the flirtatious resistance of a buxom Irish girl bawling a stolen kiss.

"Sir—sir" is it? Have I acted the grand gentleman with you that you try my soul with any such foolishness? 'Twas not with any sirs or madams that we bothered last night when we talked of County Athlone—and other things. Why should you come out at all to talk with me if you must use such mannish politeness?"

"'Twas not of last night I thought you wanted to speak when you beckoned me so secret-like behind Annie's back."

"'Twas not of last night—for that you have assured me you have forgot!" There was nothing gallant in the sudden sharpness of his voice.

refuse to overhear and tiptoe nobly away? Probably she should—but nothing would induce her to do so. She was regarded by another attempt on the part of the Irishman to get around Rosie—at least that was the interpretation Linda shrewdly put upon the situation.

"Yes, sir" and "yes, sir"—Rosie, 'tis the perfect echo you are! But the kitchen door is so near you cannot forget your lessons in respectful behavior. Come, now—do you stroll over with me to the neat little establishment I call mine. The old dragon in the kitchen will not miss you. We can rest us in comfort with a pot of strong tea between us and no one any the wiser."

"The Madam will be needing me," Linda had the grace to blush or feel like blushing behind her covey of bushes. "Tis tea for all of you I must brew very soon, sir. What was it you wished to say to me before I go in?"

Bless Rosie for a loyal young rascal! Whatever this cozening visitor wanted of her, she was not making it easy for him to ask it. Linda heard an exclamation of baffled annoyance that secretly delighted her. And then Rosie spoke again, and her mistress stood rooted to the ground in horror.

HOOKS and SLIDES by WILLIAM BRAUCHER

DID YOU KNOW THAT—
The Memphis club of the Southern league turned down an offer of $15,000 in cash and Outfielder Les Koenigs, for Walter Beck, pitcher now with the Dodgers.
The Giants made the offer and Koenigs cost the New Yorks $75,000. . . . Later Memphis sold Beck to the Dodgers for $14,000. . . . Primo Carnera doesn't like spaghetti. . . . nor red wine.
Bucky Harris is serving his fifth season as manager of the Detroit Tigers. . . . Jimmy McLaughlin refused a $50,000 offer to box Tony Cazzonieri in Madison Square Garden. . . . He said Cazzonieri was too small. . . . Lou Comiskey wanted some heavy artillery for his White Sox. . . . so he bought Al Simmons from the Athletics. . . . Simmons' big stick has been keeping the Sox up among the American league leaders.

HERE'S A COMER
The six-boom-bahs of midwest tonsil patriots are all for Patsy Peroni. They say you might just as well try to stop the flow of Niagara Falls standing on the banks and yelling "Halt!" as it tempt to keep the Italian youngster from Canton, O., off the top of the heavyweight pugilistic heap.
This Peroni kid whipped the old spoiler, rubbery-blubberty Johnny Risco, in Cleveland the other night. He out-boxed, out-smarted and out-slugged the veteran Risco. The bout was as one-sided as a painting. Today mid-west promoters are showering Maxie Baer with juicy offers for a skirmish with the newest heavyweight sensation.

WHERE OTHERS FAILED
When Peroni was decisively from Risco, he did something Mickey Walker, King Levinsky Tuffy Griffiths failed to do within the last dozen months. He made Johnny back away. He made the rubber man's knees wobble. Max Baer couldn't do it back in 1931. Neither could Stanley Poredo, Tommy Loughran and others whose names are famous in books o' doings in Flitana. Maxie Schmelling won on a technical kave from The Risk two years ago. No other heavyweight, until along came the Perrino kid, could more than hold his own, if that well, with the old spoiler.
It's a great record the Italian ring fledgling boasts. The Risco victory was his 20th in a row, and Adolph Heuser, Tom Heeney, Larry Johnson, Eddie Simms, old Michael McTigue and Joe Seckura are listed among Peroni's victims in the 20-victory match. The record book shows Peroni lost only twice, to Emmett Rocco in 1930 and to George Courtney in 1931, and both were half-line verdicts.

GAME ROCKS RIGHT ALONG
Every year the old wall goes up: the national pastime is dying of galloping conservatism. The kids are learning to handle a masher-niblick instead of a bat; the customers go to the movies instead of through the turnstiles. And every year bright ideas flood forth which will save the pastime from senile decay. And every year the ideas are discarded and the pastime goes right along like your old man's Model T, a little rattly on the rough spots, but getting there just the same.
A few years ago they tried night baseball down in the Southern league. This was to be a savior of the game. But after the novelty wore off the fans felt that somehow this wasn't baseball—this was something else again. The majors objected because they said players trained on night baseball for a couple of years blinked at the plate in the hot afternoon sun and couldn't tell "Lefty" Grove's fast one from a floodlight. And the carnivorous type of mosquito thrive and waxed fat on the blood of the fans. So that died.

SHARKEY CARNERA ABOUT MAY BE FLOP Skarda, Strelch Bowl Mat Card Favorites

FOUR BOUTS ON BOWL PROGRAM; HEAVIES ON TOP

Featuring eight of the outstanding grapplers in Southern California, men regularly started at the Los Angeles Olympic and the San Diego stadium, Santa Ana's Municipal Bowl will be given over to the ancient and royal business of wrestling again tonight.
Promoter Cal Eaton presents a double main event—Rudy Skarda vs. "Rube" Wright, and Steve Strelch vs. Pete Shue—as well as a pair of 30-minute preliminaries in which State Champion Dr. P. A. Mullikan opposes Pat McGill, and Harry Ekekan meets "Tex" Wright.
The main events match heavyweights, big fellows ranging from 180 pounds to 225. Wright is Skarda's first opponent in a show of the most promising young heavyweights on the coast, and Skarda is one of much experience despite his tender years. He is 21. Skarda is a Finn and holds victories over both Vic Christy and Dick Daviscourt and draws with Dr. Karl Sappolis and Bonnie Muir. He will be favored over the huskier Wright, whose recent activities have been confined largely to Hollywood. Wright's specialty is the airplane spin, a "hold" which is the most spectacular of all but which none of last week's grapplers emphasized.

Women will be admitted free to the Santa Ana Bowl's wrestling matches tonight. Promoter Cal Eaton announced today.

Strelch and Shue, two of the roughest boys in the game, were both on Eaton's inaugural show at the Bowl. Strelch, a big blond Swede, flattened "Tex" Wright and Shue lost a two-out-of-three fall decision to Oki Shikima when he tried for a flying tackle on the Japanese but knocked himself out instead when he sprawled into the second row of ringside seats. This furnished a spectacular finish to Santa Ana's first '33 mat program.
Strelch, a finished workman, is pleased to throw Shue here.
McGill, who wrestles Dr. Mullikan, is a tall, slender Irishman of more than average ability. Mullikan appears to have more finesse and will be favored. The Ekekan-Wright curtain-raiser shows the game's No. 1 actor in Ekekan. His facial disturbances rival Barrymore's.

PARI-MUTUEL BILL FAR AHEAD IN CAL.

SACRAMENTO, June 28.—(UP)—Attorneys of the legislative counsel bureau today said the measure legalizing pari-mutuel betting on horse races would be effective as soon as the vote on the constitutional amendment is certified.
Despite the fact that one of the propositions apparently approved by the people provided that bills passed by the legislature should become effective August 21—90 days after May 22—the bureau members said the amendment was so worded as to permit the racing measure to become effective at once.

United Press returns from 6792 out of 9347 California precincts showed No. 3, the pari-mutuel measure, to be leading by the following vote: Yes, 568,469; no, 328,567.
Both the city of Santa Ana and Orange county voted against the bill. Santa Ana complete: Yes, 4409; no, 5157. Orange county: 14,799 yes; 16,626 no.

AMERICAN GOLFERS REACH ST. ANDREWS
SOUTHPORT, Eng., June 28.—(IN)—Undaunted by America's defeat in the Ryder cup golf matches, Walter Hagen today led his U. S. team to St. Andrews where the British Open will begin July 3.
Gene Sarazen, who holds the title in addition to the U. S. Open championship, and Hagen are in fine fettle for the British Open.

Herb Salveson Out As Hawk Manager

Herb Salveson was today relieved as manager of Fullerton's National Night Ball league club by Glen Updyke, leader of a strong Fullerton city league team, who plans to merge his local talent with the Hawks in an effort to give Fullerton stronger representation in the major loop. Jim Roberts has replaced Bill Gilmore as financial sponsor of the unit.
Updyke has appointed Outfielder Wayne Nelson as field captain and has released all former Fullerton players but Nelson, Phil Schrott, Jim Sultenfuss, Russ Coggan and Sam Miller.
Salveson, one-time Santa Ana manager, probably will remain in the National league as an umpire.

Friday's Games
Whittier at Santa Ana; Huntington Beach at Torrance; Anaheim at Fullerton; Westminster at Olive.
To all intents and purposes, Louie Neva and Company of Torrance was "in" today as first-half champion of the National Night Baseball league.
The Terrors increased their lead to three full games last night by shutting out Westminster, 12-0, while Huntington Beach was blowing an 8-6 decision to Santa Ana. Torrance still plays Huntington Beach, Fullerton, Olive and Santa Ana but only has to break even in these games to win the flag even if Huntington Beach wins all its remaining starts.

Stopping Westminster with three scattered singles, Neva never was in trouble. The young mound sensation blasted his usual homer, with one aboard in the fourth, and cracked a double in the sixth that netted two runs. Hal Forney homed in the fifth with one on and Joe Storti tripled in the eighth with two on.
Torrance punished both of Westminster's pitchers, Morrill lasting four innings and allowing the first five runs.

Knocking Al Bushman out of the box in the seventh inning when they scored seven times, Olive's Packard defeated Anaheim, 10-5, at Anaheim.
Bill Sweet started the rally with a home run and before Bushman could get anybody out Olive had the outbreak the score was 0-0. Three errors and hits by Griffith, Hatfield, Shell, Heman, Sands and Reolin, the latter's a double off Relief Pitcher Downer, did the damage.
Olive got another run in the eighth on Shell's double and Sands' single. Then Anaheim's scored the Packers with a five-run uprising, featuring a homer by Kohler with Hasetot and Higgins aboard. Two more runs in the ninth assured Olive of victory, however.

ROD BALLARD'S HOMER, TRIPLE WIN FOR STARS

Santa Ana—or to be more precise, Rod Ballard—today had removed Huntington Beach as the black menace of the National Night Ball league's first half.

Ruined by Ballard's extra base socking in the pinches last night, 8 to 6, Huntington Beach was set back a full game in its championship quest, and that amounted to virtual destruction because the schedule calls for the first-place Torrance team to play only four more times and it is leading the league by three games.

Ballard got only two hits—but how they were hit! The first was a blazing home run with the bases full, the second a robust triple that drove in the winning run. Ballard personally accounted, one way or another, for six of the Stars' eight tallies.
Also instrumental in the Santa Ana victory was Wilbur Stinchfield, schoolboy pinch pitcher, who came into the game as relief for Wilson Seacord in the seventh and blanked Huntington Beach the rest of the way out. He fanned two of the three who faced him in the last of the ninth after Santa Ana smashed a 6-6 tie in the earlier half of the start.

Moving Victim of Outbreak
The Stars got their two winning markers off Relief Gunner Howard Morning, "Chico" Sabella having been lifted for a pinch hitter in the sixth. An error helped put the skids under the southpaw. Denney was thrown out by Clemens but First Baseman Smith muffed the ball. Merrill sacrificed. Denney remained at second while Daley popped out, then trotted home when Ballard hammered a sharp triple to left center, with the count on him two strikes and no balls. Ballard landed on a wild pitch.
Huntington Beach scored first, Clemens ringing the bell on a second inning single, a passed ball and Bob Smith's hit to center.
Unable to dent Sabella for four frames, Santa Ana all but drove the veteran off the ridge in a furious fifth inning assault which Ballard climaxed with his four-ply contribution. The entire side batted around during the disturbance.
George Preble, brought in off with a line single to right. Wilcox popped out and Seacord sacrificed, so two were out before the rally really got under way. A wild pitch put Preble on third and he scored on Hill's infield single. Denney singled and so did Merrill, counting Hill and putting Santa Ana ahead, 2-1. Edd Daley worked Sabella for a walk, leading the bases. Then Ballard blasted a homer to left center, tallying Denney, Merrill and Daley before him and running Santa Ana's lead to 6-1.

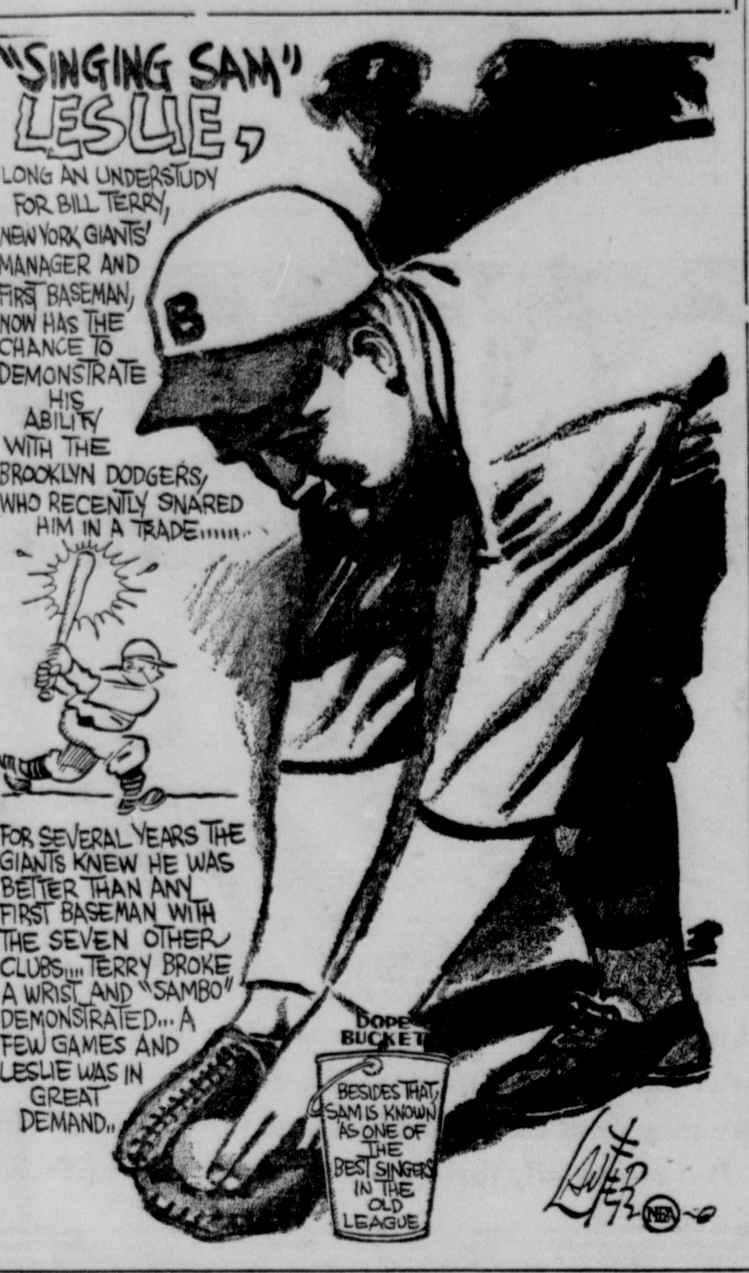

Maness Raps Homer
Huntington Beach kept in the ball game with periodic attacks on young Seacord. Successive singles by Clemens, Conrad and Lake, all he-hits, and a fielder's choice, produced two runs in the sixth, and Otis Maness' lengthy home run to deep center tied the score at 6-6 in the seventh, the blow coming after Osborn and Schuchardt had beat out bunts. Ballard made a long run for Maness' drive and finally got his hands on the sphere but couldn't hold it.
Maness' shot drove Seacord to cover. Stinchfield coming in to man the mound, Seacord pitched to Manager Joe Rodgers with none out. Rodgers popped out but Clemens singled and Conrad doubled. Then Stinchfield got his bearings, retiring Lake and Smith and breezing through the rest of the contest without trouble.

GOB-CIVILIAN SHOW POPULAR Delhi Expects Best Crowd Since Rivers-Chavez Bout ALL-NAVY CHAMPION ON CARD

The glittering prospect of Santa Ana's biggest boxing night since Zenaydo Chavez and Jimmie Rivers turned away 300 disappointed customers nearly three years ago had Orange County Athletic club officials on the qui vive today, with Matchmaker Kid Mexico predicting a near capacity house tomorrow night for his second sailor-civilian program.

By request, the club is again sending its own all-Delhi team against 10 of the U. S. S. Lexington's ablest fighters who last week starred in a slam-bang show that attracted the year's banner attendance.
Chavez and Rivers fought before nearly 2000 fans. Mexico and Promoter Sam Sampson anticipated no such turnout in view of economic conditions, but believe advance sales warrant a prophecy that the attendance will total near the 1200 figure.
Jack Campbell, one of the best light heavies in the U. S. navy, main-events the show against "Bud" McCarter, onetime Orange high school athlete and winner of five successive fights at Santa Ana. Campbell was here last Thursday and watched his shipmate, "Cup-Cup" Rutkuzik, take a lacing from the long-legged McCarter. Lexington rooters think McCarter is overrated, believe Campbell will be too good for "Bud."
The complete card was announced today by Matchmaker Mexico. It follows:
Semi-windup: Ray (Killer) Ketchell, U. S. S. Lexington, vs. Nat Mills, 140 pounds.
Special event: Honorato ("Honey Boy") Echavez, all-navy flyweight champion, vs. Freddie Encinas, 112 pounds. This is a rematch, Encinas having been awarded a questionable decision last week.
"Ponyboy" Quarles, U. S. S. Lexington, vs. Art Sharon, 136 pounds.
Tony Lopez, U. S. S. Lexington, vs. Paul Garcia, 140 pounds.
Archie Vaucl, U. S. S. Lexington, vs. Carl Robertson, 155 pounds.
Gunner Harris, U. S. S. Lexington, vs. Doyle Richards, 165 pounds.
Seaman Foster, U. S. S. Lexington, vs. Paul Brown, 125 pounds.
"Spider" Kelly, U. S. S. Lexington, vs. Vic Orosco, 138 pounds.
"Speedy" Abueg, U. S. S. Lexington, vs. Pat Gillan, 110 pounds.

PIPING 'EM OFF

Huntington Beach combed Santa Ana's 15 hits but since more than half the crop was harvested by two players, widely scattered in the batting order, the damage was not as great as it might have been. Pete Osborn, leading batter of the league in '32, got five hits in a row and Clarence Clemens four. Clemens was robbed of another blow in the ninth when a spectacular diving catch of his line drive.

Outfielder "Rosy" Merrill had two assists. He threw out Osborn trying to stretch a double into a triple and nailed Schuchardt trying to go to second after Rodgers' fly to right.
Pitcher Wilbur Stinchfield was bearing down hard on every pitch in the ninth inning, and he fanned two good hitters in Rowe and Conrad. Stinchfield has plenty of speed and looks like he would be very effective if he could develop a change of pace to go with it.

Joe Cornelius, now officially listed as Santa Ana's outfielder, is growing a beard. Already he could qualify for the House of David ball team.
Santa Ana may play its next four first-half games at the Bowl. The Stars are scheduled to go to a row next week but Business Managers John Wilcox and Ben Gelker prefer to run the game here if arrangements can be made. Whittier comes to town Friday night.
Sonnenberg Faces Stein At Olympic
LOS ANGELES, June 28.—(UP)—A "prize" in the form of a match with Jim Brown or Joe Savoldi is at stake tonight when Gus Sonnenberg tangles with Sammy Stein in the main match at the Olympic auditorium.

L. D. Coffing Aces No. 2 At Country Club

The Santa Ana Country Club's thirty-sixth hole-in-one was today accredited to the record of Lawrence D. Coffing. Santa Ana automobile distributor, who aced the 114-yard No. 2 hole late Tuesday.
Using a masher-niblick, Coffing pitched within two feet of the pin and the ball dropped into the cup on the first bounce.
On the same hole, five of Coffing's isoprette partners scored par three's. Another required a five.

Players who witnessed and attested Coffing's feat were L. W. Bemis, Ed Holmes, A. W. Robinson, Dr. G. C. Ross, Paul Williams and L. H. Robinson.
Coffing's was the second hole-in-one made here this year. The last was registered January 28 by R. E. Gray.

COCHET FORCED FIVE SETS TO BEAT BURWELL

WIMBLEDON, June 28.—(UP)—Helen Jacobs of California, American National singles champion, gained the third round of the all-England tennis tournament today by a 6-1, 6-3 victory over Joan Saunders, English star. The weather was warm and muggy.
Dorothy Andrus Burke of Stamford, Conn., joined Miss Jacobs in the third round with a 6-4, 6-4 win over Mrs. D. Crichton of England.
Jack Crawford, No. 1 Australian of Davis-cupper and one of the tournament favorites, reached the fourth round of the men's singles with a 6-3, 6-4, 8-6 victory over Antoine Gienard of France.

Henri Cochet of France gained the fourth round with a grueling 2-6, 6-4, 6-3, 5-7, 6-3 victory over Clayton Lee Burwell, former American college star.
Burwell gave Cochet one of the hardest battles the French ace has ever had. More than once it seemed the collegian's amazing steadiness from the backcourt drives would bring him victory. But Cochet, as is his custom, found his game, when he had to, and finally beat back the American with a dazzling exhibition of volleying at the net and in the short court.

David Jones of New York advanced to the fourth round with a 7-5, 6-2, 11-9 victory over the South African Davis cup player, Colin Robins.
America's chances in the doubles suffered a heavy blow when the California team of Ellsworth Vines and Keith Gladhill was defeated in the first round by the Australian combination of Adrian Quist and Don Turnbull, 4-6, 5-7, 6-2, 6-4, 6-2.

'SMART MONEY' LEANS TOWARD PRIMO VICTORY

BY JACK CUDDY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
NEW YORK, June 28.—(UP)—The Jack Sharkey-Primo Carnera heavyweight title bout tomorrow night seems to have developed into a "mystery match," with fans, experts, betting men and even Madison Square Garden officials somewhat bewildered on the eve of the battle.
The underworld seems to have taken unusual interest in this 15-rounder, and rumors swirl through Cauliflower Alley to the effect that it's "in the bag." Some have it in the sack for Carnera and others for Sharkey.

Some writers try to connect these rumors with the number of questionable characters at both camps during the training period, but most of the experts consider the whisperings as part of the music accompanying every important fight. The armchairists make much of the clouds of suspicion which hovered over Carnera's early boxing tours.

Betting Men Amazed
However, betting men were amazed at the strange shifting of all-wishers, this fight will be Carnera into the ring the favorite. It would be the first time in boxing history that a heavyweight challenger was on the favored end. A champion always has been at least the 6 to 5 choice. A week or so ago Jack was the 2 to 1 favorite but today the odds have been hammered down to 11 to 10.

Jack Doyle, Broadway's veteran betting commissioner, said he would not be surprised to see the odds even at ring time or perhaps a shade in Carnera's favor. Carnera money is showing in increasing amounts.
President William F. Carey of Madison Square Garden and his assistants were particularly mystified at the apparent lack of public interest in the fight.
Bout May Be Flop
Unless excellent weather brings out a last minute stampede from New York's huge Italian population and from Sharkey's army of all-wishers, this fight will be a bloomer financially. Less than $100,000 in cash and "good" reservations is in the till. Carey hoped for a gate of about $275,000 from 60,000 fans.

Sharkey broke camp at Orangeburg yesterday, came to New York and attended a musical show last night. He will take a hike through Central park today and go to the theater again tonight. Carnera continued his training yesterday at Pompton Lakes, N. J., and will take another light workout there today. He was scheduled to come to New York tomorrow in time to weigh in at 2 p.m. Carnera will scale about 262 pounds, and Sharkey about 204.
A feature of their training was the lack of harmony in each camp. Carnera's manager, Sorel, and the front man, Bill Duffy, admittedly were near the breaking point. Similarly Sharkey's manager, Johnny Buckley, and the trainer, Al Lacey, were scarcely on speaking terms.

Hartranft addressed the Buena Park brotherhood at the regular supper in the social hall of the Congregational church Tuesday night, taking as his subject, "Personal Service." The supper was given by the members of the Missionary society. C. L. McComber was in charge of the program for the evening.

Councilman Buys Placentia Store

PLACENTIA, June 28.—Howard Jerome, city councilman of Placentia, and for years connected with the People's store before the death of the founder, A. Ipsen, has purchased the stock of the store. It was announced today. Jerome and J. P. Glenn took over the store at the death of the former proprietor. Glenn has taken his family and moved to Washington state, where he is going to ranch.

20 KIWANIS AT CONVENTION IN LOS ANGELES

FULLERTON, June 28.—More than 20 Kiwanians from Fullerton, with their wives, attended the Kiwanis International convention that is in session in the Greek theater, in Los Angeles. Glenn Lewis, an instructor in the Fullerton Union High school, and Harry Wilbur are members of the chorus of 1000 voices that opened the convention Sunday night.

Among the groups that attended sessions were Mr. and Mrs. L. O. Culp, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Williams, Dr. and Mrs. W. W. Hilsley, Dr. and Mrs. G. Wendell Olsen, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Irwin, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Launer, Dr. and Mrs. H. G. Howe, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Horner, Dr. and Mrs. J. H. Lang, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. OFF TO THE World's Fair!

...for a happy, speedy trip over the scenic and historic "Golden State Route"
DIRECT LINE TO CHICAGO

THE "GOLDEN STATE LIMITED"—Southern Pacific's World's Fair Train offers extra travel pleasure—with no extra fare.

First, it's fast—and straight through without change of cars.

Second, it is comfortable, restful, with every travel convenience.

Southern Pacific's famous "Meals Select" are served in a cool "air-conditioned" dining car. (Complete lunches and dinners 80c to $1.25. Breakfasts 50c to 90c.)

There is a pleasant Observation Car with ladies' private lounge, maid, and bath... and a friendly Club Car with barber, valet, and bath for men.

You have a choice of accommodations—Standard Pullman, Tourist Pullman, or Reclining Chair Car of the most modern design.

Third, the Golden State Route—direct to Chicago has countless attractions of scenic and historic interest.

You go along the base of Mt. San Jacinto, usually snow-capped... through the fertile Coachella Valley, famous for its date gardens... skirting Salton Sea, 280 feet below sea level... then across the Colorado River, through Phoenix and the Salt River Valley, seat of an ancient civilization... the Apache country, historic Tucson, and on to El Paso. Then north through

New Mexico, across the midwest plains "where once roamed the buffalo"... Kansas City... over night and then Chicago.

Coming home, you can return on one of the other famous Southern Pacific routes—the "Overland Route" via San Francisco, or the "Sunset Route" via New Orleans. Or return via Portland—"Shasta-Cascade Route" for a small additional charge.

Valuable Travel Service
Southern Pacific ticket agents are travel experts. They can be of real service in helping you plan a trip—that exactly fits your needs and your pocketbook. Phone, or see one of them today. Ask for interesting World's Fair literature and Summer Fares leaflet.

LEGAL ADVISORS OF CITIES TO MEET THURSDAY

All city attorneys of Orange county will attempt to frame an ordinance regulating handbills which would be acceptable for county-wide adoption, at a meeting at 2 p. m. tomorrow in the office of City Attorney Clyde Downing in the First National bank building.

Downing held a conference with Santa Ana business men yesterday afternoon and discussed the matter of advertising. Many of the proposals asked by the merchants will be brought up at the meeting Thursday, especially in regard to outside competition.

Santa Ana will delay action on a proposed new ordinance until after the conference. Likewise, the suit pending against the Shopping News will not be pressed until the new legislation is decided on, Downing said.

PLAN PROGRAM FOR YOUNG MEN IN Y. M. LOBBY

Young men of Santa Ana and members of the Young Men's Christian association have been invited to attend a get-together meeting of entertainment and fellowship on Thursday at 7:30 p. m. in the lobby of the Y. M. C. A.

Plans and suggestions for a summer program to interest young men will be worked out at the informal meeting. A committee of Dr. Edward Lee Russell, Edward Gaebbe, Charles Adams, Dr. R. S. Wade, Faris Edgar, McKee Fleck and Norman Hicks will propose several features for summer enjoyment at the Y.

In addition to the planning for the summer months, a program will be presented. It will include a talk by Louis Hansen, just home from a round-the-world trip, who will tell of Easter Sunday in Jerusalem and "Y" activities there; music by Fred Garland and short talks by others. Charles Adams is furnishing orange juice and the meeting will be concluded with a swim in the plunge or games in the gym.

Ralph C. Smedley, secretary of the Y, has issued an invitation to all young men of the city to attend.

Italy's Air Armada Preen Its Wings for Ocean Flight

"I present 100 persons of flesh, and 100 hearts of steel." Thus did Colonel Aldo Pellegrini, commander of Italy's air armada, present to General Italo Balbo, Italy's Minister of Aviation, the crews of the 24 flying boats Pellegrini will lead across the Atlantic to the Century of Progress Exposition at Chicago. The flyers are shown undergoing final inspection by General Balbo at Orbetello air base, near Rome. Their ships are ranged behind them.

LOCAL GUARD COMPANY WINS COMMENDATION

Company "L," California National Guard, was one of the outstanding units in the division, according to results of the 4th Division inspection made public today. The company was reported to be "well organized and well trained, having capable non-commissioned officers with instruction planned excellently."

Results of the federal inspection were made public today, as well. Everything was satisfactory to the inspecting officer, Col. Hugh Parker, with the exception of the drill hall and armory facilities, and the fact that the entire company was not protected by anti-typhoid inoculation, which is now being made a requirement to enlistment, and the condition will be corrected by the next inspection, according to the report.

The new home to be built by the American Legion post in the near future will correct the first deficiency, according to company officials. The report stated that the unit presented a neat military appearance and showed a marked improvement in its training and non-commissioned officers since the last federal inspection.

The unit is now up to its full allowable strength, according to Capt. James B. Pettit, commander of the company.

Camp dates this year from July 23 to August 2, the camp to be held at San Luis Obispo as usual. It is expected that the unit will move out of its present location before leaving for camp so that demolition of the damaged Legion hall can be started and the new building completed with a minimum of delay, Capt. Pettit said.

BOYS GOING TO Y CAMP MUST REGISTER SOON

Boys of Santa Ana were warned today by D. H. Tibbals, boys' work secretary of the Y. M. C. A., that it is time for all registrations for the summer camp at Osceola to be brought in. Santa Ana older boys will go to Osceola on July 5, in company with boys from Orange and Anaheim, and they will have a 12-day period at that mountain camp under the leadership of a selected group of adult leaders.

Boys from the north part of Orange county are at the camp now, and they report unusually agreeable conditions and a wonderful time as they get settled into their routine of work, study and play.

Tibbals announced that he has room for several more boys in the Santa Ana quota, and he advised prompt filing of reservations by the boys who desire to attend.

The younger boys, those 12 years of age and younger, will take their week at camp from July 17 to 24, when the younger boys of all Orange county will spend one week at Osceola in their annual outing. Reservations for this camp are also acceptable at this time, and on account of the wide area included in the camp, Tibbals warns the boys not to delay their applications until a late date, when the roster may be filled.

E. B. SHARPLEY INSTALLED AS ROTARY LEADER

E. B. Sharpley, traveling passenger agent of the Southern Pacific railroad, was installed as president of the Santa Ana Rotary club, yesterday noon, succeeding George D. Newcom in that position.

Mae O. Robbins, past president of the club, presided over the program, and was assisted by the various other past presidents in offering a program of installation in which fun and serious thought were mingled. Robert L. Brown, the club's songster, gave enjoyable selections, accompanied by Duncan Harnois. J. B. Tucker officiated for the day as sergeant-at-arms, and also in delivering the presentation speech accompanying the awarding of the past-president's medal to the retiring president.

Sharpley takes office as the fourteenth president of Santa Ana Rotary. He has associated with him Stanley E. Goode as vice-president, R. C. Smedley as secretary, and Alex Brownridge as treasurer. Members of the board of directors are Dr. E. L. Russell, Fred Merker, H. T. Dunning, Frank Henderson and George D. Newcom.

The club will omit its meeting next Tuesday, on account of the Fourth of July holiday, and the first program to be presented by the new administration will be offered on July 11.

HOLLYWOOD BOWL CONCERTS BEGIN SEASON JULY 11

The twelfth annual season of "symphonies under the stars" will open Tuesday, July 11 in the Hollywood Bowl, it was announced today by bowl officials. Many innovations on this summer's programs are expected to prove especially attractive to music lovers who drive a considerable distance to attend these outdoor musical events.

Alfred Hertz, "father of the bowl," will conduct the opening concert, to be followed the remainder of the first week by Nicholas Slonimsky, associate conductor of the Boston symphony, and one of the finest symphonic leaders in the world. The first ballet will be presented on Saturday, July 15, when Fanchon and Marco, nationally-known stage producers, will offer a colorful spectacle.

One of the innovations this year will be a series of "twilight" concerts late Sunday afternoons. These probably will start between 5 and 7 o'clock, Manager Glenn M. Tindall said today. The exact starting hour will be announced later. This is the first time in the bowl's history that Sunday programs have been a part of the regular season. Concerts will be presented on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday nights, and Sunday evenings, for eight weeks, concluding September 3.

Lions District Governor to Be Here Tomorrow

Walter Dexter, president of Whittier college and well-known lecturer, who is district governor of Lions clubs, will make an official visit to the Santa Ana club at the regular weekly meeting tomorrow noon in Ketter's cafe. It was announced today by E. M. "Sunny" Sundquist, secretary.

Elliott Rowland, director in Lions International, made arrangements for securing the district governor for the local meeting. Invitations to the luncheon meeting were sent out to all clubs in Orange county, and representatives of many of the clubs will attend the meeting.

Carson Smith, newly elected president of the club, and Glen Tibbals, retiring president, who have just returned from the Lions convention, will make reports on matters discussed at the conference.

VILLA PARK

VILLA PARK, June 28.—Waldo Miller, of Los Angeles, was a recent guest of his cousins, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Squires. They drove to Whittier to attend the Kansas picnic, where they met George Miller and Will Miller, their uncle, and a cousin, Wade Ellis, cousin, Wade Ellis.

Mrs. J. D. Spennetta and daughters, Betty and Mary, are spending the summer in their cottage at Balboa Island.

Mrs. Harold T. Brewer and daughters, Bernice, Catherine, Betty and Harriet, spent several days recently at their summer home at Newport Beach.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Bathgate, of Santa Ana, were recent visitors in the C. E. Squires home.

EXAMINATIONS FOR U. S. JOBS ARE ANNOUNCED

Open competitive examinations for several governmental positions were announced today by the United States Civil Service commission through Secretary Frank Cannon, at the Santa Ana post-office, who has detailed information.

Woman's Club Installs Officers at Final Meeting

Installation of officers came as an outstanding feature of the meeting of Santa Ana Woman's club held yesterday afternoon at Irvine park, where a delightful luncheon preceded program details which brought to a close the organization's activities for the year.

Mrs. E. E. Smith of Anaheim, past president of the Orange County Federation of Women's clubs, officiated at the installation, during which Mrs. William Wells became president, Mrs. R. G. Carman, vice president; Mrs. William Whitehead, recording secretary; Mrs. E. C. Harris, corresponding secretary; Mrs. E. H. Thompson, press chairman; Mrs. M. J. Marks, parliamentarian; Mrs. J. D. Watkins, federation secretary, and Mrs. James McCracken, historian. Members of the new cabinet received corsage bouquets.

Mrs. J. D. Watkins, retiring president, presented her group of officers with gifts in addition to corsage bouquets. Presentation of the flowers was made by Mrs. Ethel Thompson.

Sharing guest honors during the afternoon with Mrs. E. E. Smith was Mrs. Agnes W. Purnell, office secretary to Miss Josephine Seaman, new president of the California Federation. Talks were made by Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Purnell.

During the business session, it was brought out that 27 new members had been added to the club's roster during the year just closing. In giving a short talk, Mrs. M. J. Marks referred to the Orange County Federation as a child of the Santa Ana Woman's clubs.

It was reported that four of the club's members hold county offices. They are Mrs. Jacob Bohlander, chairman of American home; Mrs. James McCracken, literature and art; Mrs. William West, war veterans; Mrs. J. D. Watkins, corresponding secretary.

Luncheon Details
Luncheon preceding the program features was served at tables decorated to represent the months of the year as a birthday celebration for everyone present. Mrs. E. M. Waycott, January hostess, had arranged New Year's appointment; Mrs. J. J. Jacobs, February; George Washington; Mrs. A. E. Green, March; St. Patrick's; Mrs. R. G. Carman, April; Easter; Mrs. R. C. Harris, May; May day; Mrs. Ruth Riggie, June; weddings; Mrs. William Caster, July; Independence day; Mrs. E. O. Ahern, August, beach scene; Mrs. M. C. Williams, September, harvest; Mrs. A. J. Knight, October, Halloween; Mrs. Ethel H. Thompson, November, harvest time; Mrs. J. H. Tompkins, December, Christmas.

Mrs. Marie Stanton Eyerly presented Mrs. Watkins with a gift on behalf of the club.

Sewing Club Spends Pleasant Evening
Chat and Sew club members were delightfully entertained last night when they were guests in the home of Mrs. Ruth Williams Riggie, 728 Orange avenue. Her mother, Mrs. M. C. Williams, assisted in hostess duties.

Roses, dahlias and Scotch broom decked the rooms where sewing was enjoyed during the early evening hours. Refreshments of ices and cakes were served on individual trays whose appointments in a delicate tint of pink included corsage bouquets.

Those present were Mesdames T. R. Nell, John J. Vernon, Oliver Wickersheim, Edwin Wescott, J. T. Molins, Carl Pister, Ernestine Nightengale, V. O. Estes, John Powell, Irwin Prevett of Santa Ana and Orange, and the hostesses, Mrs. Riggie and Mrs. Williams.

Mrs. Wescott, 235 North Cleveland street, Orange, is to be hostess at the next meeting. Tuesday evening, July 18.

Forum Members Take Part in Evening Program

Installation of officers took place at the meeting of the Women's Forum, held Tuesday evening in the home of Mrs. E. S. Hurwitz, 1820 North Broadway. Assisting Mrs. Hurwitz in her hostess duties were Miss Hester Covington, Dr. Julia Heinrichs and Mrs. J. F. Mueller.

A vacation theme was emphasized during the program, presided over by Mrs. T. P. McKee, toastmistress. Miss Hester Covington spoke on the locality for a vacation, after which Mrs. F. E. Harrison described a trip to the Redwood forests and Yosemite. She gave an appropriate song of her own composition.

Mrs. U. H. Plavan spoke of a trip to Jasper National park in Canada, and Mrs. Charlotte Wallace described a boat trip from New York through the Panama canal. Dr. Hester Olevier discussed the question, "Should professional people observe vacations as those in commercial life do?" A criticism given by Mrs. John Clarkson concluded the forum.

Mrs. A. A. May presented a program of vocal selections, including "The Years at the Spring," by Beach; "Iris," by Woolf; "April Fool," by Garland; "Shorten in Bread," by Wolfe. She was accompanied by Miss Hester Covington.

Mrs. R. R. Russick, past president, installed the new officers, who are Mrs. T. P. McKee, president; Mrs. U. H. Plavan, vice president and program chairman; Mrs. W. T. Kirwin, secretary; and Dr. Julia Heinrichs, treasurer.

During the refreshment hour, present and past officers were seated at a long table, centered with a bouquet of carnations and gypsophila. Smaller bouquets of the same combination decked card tables, at which were seated the remainder of the guests. Special guests were the past presidents, including Mesdames Harry Gardner, Major Anderson, Ray Snyder, A. F. Gramas and Martin P. Carlson. Mrs. A. A. May, Mrs. S. H. Finley and Mrs. Henry Tannenbaum, old members, were also honored.

Many Santa Anans Are In Forest Home for Vacations

Favorite among Santa Ana people as a popular summer resort is Forest Home, with many local folk seeking the pleasures of that vacation spot each week.

Recent visitors included Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Bond and guests, Mr. and Mrs. Grant Dunbar of Los Angeles, who spent the week-end in the Bond cabin, "Evergreen Lodge." James Decker was host to several friends in the W. S. Decker cabin over the week-end, including Miss Vernis Wagener and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Munro.

"For Rest Home," the cabin of C. H. Chapman, was the week-end retreat of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Dixon and small son, accompanied by friends from out of town.

Mrs. H. T. Trueblood and Mrs. Fred Jarboe of San Diego are spending ten days in the Trueblood cottage. The Hugh Gerhardt cabin has held vacation enjoyment the past week for Mrs. Flora J. Smith, Mrs. J. C. Lamb, Mrs. Hubert Riggan, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hill. Mr. and Mrs. Keith Davis of Los Angeles and friends have been occupying the S. M. Davis cabin. Mrs. Keith Davis is joined each week-end by her husband, who is a former resident of Santa Ana.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Warner spent two days recently in their cabin, while Mr. and Mrs. George Goodwin spent the week-end in their cabin. Leon Elliott spent the past week-end with his family, who are spending the summer at the Santa Ana camp grounds.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. and children, Bill and Peggy, accompanied by Miss Joan McAuley, are spending two weeks in the John McAuley cabin. Mrs. Roscoe Hewitt and daughter and son, Miss Betty and Richard, spent several days recently at their cabin.

Marriage on Sunday To Climax Series Of Functions

Miss Mildred Biescar, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Biescar of La Crescenta, whose marriage to Edwin Gerhardt, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. K. Gerhardt of this city is to be an event of Sunday, July 2, at Montrose, was honored at a luncheon given yesterday afternoon by Miss Alyce Majors.

The affair took place in the hostess' home, 1811 North Flower street. Guests were seated at a large dining room table whose appointments were in keeping with a refreshing green and white motif. Tall green tapers rising from pretty candlesticks and tiny candles forming a part of clever combination autops and place-cards lighted the scene. A bouquet of colorful mixed blooms centered the table, which was strewn with greenery.

Contract bridge games were enjoyed during the afternoon. Miss Lucy Holmes and Mrs. E. K. Gerhardt scoring first and second. Miss Biescar was presented with a handsome gift from the hostess.

In serving and other hostess details of the day Miss Majors had the assistance of her sister, Miss Mary Emil Majors, and of Miss Mary Read.

Those taking part in the affair were the honoree, Miss Biescar, and her sisters, the Misses Marian and Harriet Biescar of La Crescenta; Mrs. E. K. Gerhardt, Mrs. E. R. Majors of city and Mrs. Albert Tanager of Corona; the Misses Julia Thorndike, Marguerite Lentz, Jerry Beach, Beth Westcott, Lucy Holmes, Mary Emil Majors, Mary Read of this city and Miss Ruth Catherine Poore of San Pedro.

Trouseau Party

Miss Biescar was hostess at a pretty event this afternoon in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Biescar of La Crescenta, entertaining a little group of friends from this city at a trouseau luncheon. Her lovely shower gifts were on display at this time, with the frocks and costume details which make up her trouseau.

Mrs. Biescar joined with her daughter in giving the affair. Attending from this city were Mr. Gerhardt's mother, Mrs. E. K. Gerhardt, and the Misses Julia Thorndike, Mary Read, Alyce Majors, Marguerite Lentz, Beth Westcott and Lucy Holmes. Mrs. Lela Dodson attended from Fullerton.

Other Showers
For the past several weeks Miss Biescar has been honored at many lovely affairs. Among the first hostesses were two of her Alpha Chi Omega sorority sisters from U. S. C., the Misses Peggy Schuck and Valita Vandegrift, who joined in giving a lingerie shower in Los Angeles.

The Misses Dorothy and Helen Allie of Los Angeles, also sorority sisters of the bride-to-be, entertained with a kitchen shower. Appointments and gifts were in keeping with a green and white theme. Miss Biescar's aunt, Mrs. W. A. Birnie, was hostess at a miscellaneous shower in her Beverly Hills home.

A miscellaneous shower was given at La Crescenta by the Misses Virginia and Helen Haskins, and another by Miss Mary Biescar of Los Angeles, a cousin of the bride-elect. Mrs. Ethel Chapman of La Crescenta gave a linen shower.

Miss Biescar was hostess to a group of 35 girls recently, modeling frocks of her trouseau at this time.

Native Daughters

Native Daughters of the Golden West took part in an enjoyable social time Monday evening in Knights of Pythias hall, following a business session in charge of Mrs. W. A. West, newly-elected president. Mrs. West has not been installed as yet, but presided in the absence of the president, Mrs. Mildred Grey, who has not returned from the Native Daughters' convention at San Francisco.

Several tables of cards were in session. Mrs. Walter Hickey scoring high, and Mrs. William West, low. K. R. Chandler was awarded a scarf as a special prize.

Refreshments of cake and coffee were served at the close of the meeting. Guests were in attendance from Grace parlor, N. D. Fullerton.

Sigma Chapter Visits Laguna Beach Art Studio

Privileged to be guests in the Laguna Beach studio of William A. Griffith, president of the Art Association of that city, members of Sigma chapter, Beta Sigma Phi, national sorority, took part in a delightful evening the past week.

Mr. Griffith displayed a group of his own paintings, giving a short talk on each one. Sorority members were interested in learning that he paints the ocean from memory, after sitting where he can watch the waves for hours.

Of special interest to the guests was a beautiful painting in which he had combined his interpretation of the first two lines of the 91st Psalm.

The visit to Mr. Griffith's studio was preceded by a covered-dish dinner in the sorority's home at Laguna Beach.

Those in the group were Miss Beulah May, honorary member; the Misses Mary Ford, president; Lillie Forsberg, Ione Hanson, Marie LaBrucherie, Delphina Lopez, Lillian McDonald, Lynette Robb, Ellen Snelley, Katherine Spicer and Mary Louise Wallace.

Sigma chapter members took part in an overnight affair at their beach home recently. Swimming, dancing, bicycling and horseback riding were enjoyed at this time. Those participating were the Misses Mary Ford, Lillie Forsberg, Juanita Fowler, Marie LaBrucherie, Hazel Lee, Dorothy Lindsey, Delphina Lopez, Lillian McDonald, Lynette Robb, Elsie Siemsen, Ellen Snelley, Katherine Spicer, Mildred Staples and Mary Louise Wallace.

Auxiliary Glee Club Meets in Tustin Home

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Will S. Leinberger on West Main street, Tustin, was the setting for a charmingly arranged party Monday night when Mrs. Leinberger was hostess to the Santa Ana American Legion Auxiliary Glee club. Bouquets of gladioli, sweet peas and pansies provided decorations throughout the rooms.

Following a period devoted to rehearsing songs, with Miss Ruth Armstrong at the piano, card tables were placed for a session of bridge. Attractive prizes for high and low scores were won by Mrs. Edith Schaniel and Mrs. Zola Maag.

Refreshments of home-made ice cream, cake, cookies and coffee were served at a late hour. Mrs. Jeanne Thorman assisted Mrs. Leinberger in hostess duties.

Those present, other than the hostess, were Mrs. Vivian Neff of Los Angeles; Mrs. Zola Maag of Olive; Mrs. Cedie Fross Willits, director; Miss Ruth Armstrong; Mrs. Edith Schaniel; Mrs. Ruth Spears; Mrs. Gertrude Colver; Mrs. Josephine Lykke; Mrs. Inez Halber; Mrs. Ruth Garrison; Mrs. Ethel Brown; Mrs. Elsie Conliffe; Miss Gladys Young and Mrs. Julie Hyde of Santa Ana; Mrs. Jeanne Thorman and Mrs. Charlena Utt of Tustin.

Former Residents of Missouri Attend Picnic

Former residents of Missouri were guests at a pleasant affair given recently when Dr. and Mrs. Fred M. Binkley entertained at Laguna Beach, giving an outdoor luncheon to precede a social time in their home in the beach city.

Picnic grounds on a cliff overlooking the ocean served as setting for the luncheon itself. During the interval and the enjoyable time which followed in the Binkley home, acquaintances were renewed, and reminiscing proved of special interest.

Sharing the hospitality of Dr. and Mrs. Binkley were Mrs. Margaret Mae Reed, Mary Margaret Reed, Betty Jeanne Reed, Mary Beasley and Mrs. Ralph Rule of Santa Ana; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dudley; Mrs. Marian Dudley; Mr. Gordon and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Murray of Long Beach; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Headley, Mary Margaret Headley, Frank Headley Jr., Jim Smith and Dorothy Heck of Alhambra; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Brannum of Hollywood; Molly Stuart of La Jolla; Lorraine Binkley of Nashville, Tenn.; and G. B. Forrester of Redondo Beach.

Santa Anans Return From Eastern Tour

Mr. and Mrs. Harry M. Smith, 1416 North Broadway, returned to their home Monday after a pleasant two month's tour of 19 eastern states, during which they renewed old acquaintances, and held reunions with relatives.

Yuma, Ariz., was one of their first stops, from which they motored to Phoenix, and from there to El Paso, Tex., crossing the border to Juarez, Mex. Stopping briefly in Dallas and Fort Worth, Tex., they passed through Oklahoma, and stopped in Siloam Springs, Ark., where they visited a former school friend of Mrs. Smith, Marshall, Mo. and Ironton, O., also claimed their attention. They journeyed from those points to Huntington, West Virginia, and back into Ohio, where they visited the towns of Marietta and Cleveland.

Buffalo and Niagara Falls were also included in their itinerary and from the latter place they went by steamer to Toronto, Canada. Returning, they visited Detroit, Mich., their former home. While attending the Century of Progress exposition in Chicago, the travelers were fortunate in experiencing cool weather. A stop was made in Kansas City, Mo. In Colorado Springs they visited the Garden of the Gods and the Cave of the Winds. Laramie, Wyo., Salt Lake City, Zion National park and Boulder dam were visited by the Santa Anans on the return trip.

Announcements

Colery and Tomato Puree

Run a bunch of colery through the food grinder, together with a bunch of green onions, a carrot and 1 clove of garlic. Fry out 3 slices of diced bacon, add the ground vegetables to bacon, then a quart of hot water. Cover and simmer until tender, add 2 cups of stewed tomatoes, boil up, season with parsley, thyme, a whole clove, and salt and pepper. Simmer for 30 minutes, strain, and add 2 tablespoons of butter blended with 1 tablespoon of flour to slightly thicken the broth.

Baked Hamburger

For a family of four, take 1-2 pounds of hamburger, season it highly, shape into an elliptical loaf, put into a hot buttered skillet and brown quickly. If you can turn it, do so; if not, just slip the skillet into a hot oven and bake about 30 minutes. Transfer to a hot platter, spread with soft butter, salt, pepper and paprika. Pour around the steak a savory hot Spanish sauce, made by cooking tomatoes, green peppers and onions, with a little butter, to a thick sauce.

PROPERTIES IN MESA DISTRICT CHANGE HANDS

COSTA MESA, June 28.—Albert Duarte, of Newport Beach, has bought what was formerly known as the Stamp place on West Wilton street and will move into the property at once. O. M. Cargay, of Murietta, has purchased an acre tract at the corner of Placenta and Fifteenth streets and will erect a residence there. Both deals were made through F. E. Russell, a local realtor.

A. A. Butler, of Pasadena, has rented a residence on Seventeenth street at Orange, H. Q. Harvey of Huntington Beach, has rented a place on Virginia place and Orange avenue. Charles Lord has rented a home at Broadway and Fullerton street. These rentals were made through F. E. Russell.

Russell stated that he is getting many inquiries both for rentals and for purchases of real estate.

not try them some other way than in pie?

Put the freshly pitted cherries over a low fire with the cup of sugar, cover and simmer until tender. Bring the water to a boil, sift in the half cup of tapioca and stir until it thickens. Add salt and combine with the sugared cherries. Taste, and if too sour, add more sugar. Turn into a mould and chill. Slice and serve with plain cream.

Vegetarian Rice Loaf

2-1/2 cups of rice, cooked
3 tablespoons butter
1 cup grated sharp cheese
Salt and pepper

Cook the rice until flaky; rinse to dislodge the loose starch, then pack the rice into a small bread tin, well buttered. Pack down with a spoon until solid, then run a knife down the center in a deep furrow, insert the butter at bottom of furrow, press the loaf back in shape, put in the grated cheese over top, and bake in a medium oven 20 minutes.

Serve this delicious loaf with asparagus tips dressed with melted butter, and one more vegetable, if you wish, and call it a good dinner, for that is exactly what it is.

The Cherry Tapoca serves eight, and the calories per serving average around 250 with a little thin cream.

The Rice Loaf serves eight also, but its calory total per serving is a respectable 355.

WESTMINSTER BIBLE SCHOOL SLATED TO OPEN JULY 10TH

WESTMINSTER, June 28.—Opening of the Bible Training school of the Westminster Presbyterian church has been set for July 10 and materials for class work were secured this week by Mrs. Marie Hare, general superintendent of the school, and Mrs. John Kline, wife of the local pastor. The school will be held for three weeks, beginning at 9 o'clock and closing at noon.

Three divisions are arranged, the beginners, primary and junior groups, children from kindergarten age up to and including sixth grade pupils, being eligible for the school. Children under kindergarten age will not be arranged for this year. Classes will include Bible study, hand work and character training.

RESIDENTS OF TUSTIN, IRVINE HONOR FAMILY

TUSTIN, June 28.—Complimenting Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Pankey and sons, Edgar and Bobby, who are scheduled to sail from Wilmington on the S. S. California next Sunday for a voyage through the Panama canal to New York, was a delightful farewell picnic shared by approximately 200 Tustin and Irvine people at Irvine park Monday evening. The affair was planned by Mrs. Hugh J. Plumb, chairman, Mrs. Fred L. Wilson and Mrs. L. R. Stearns.

At 6:30 o'clock a potluck dinner was served by Mrs. B. B. McCulla, William Fisher and John Pieper at long tables, decorated with wooden boat vases filled with a variety of summer flowers. Tissue paper boat caps, in different colors, were worn by each one present.

Two old valises, containing old clothes, were presented to Mr. and Mrs. Pankey, who donned the attire and led the grand march. The Howard Gould orchestra of Tustin provided music for the dancers. The young people enjoyed a treasure hunt during the evening.

Upon their arrival in the eastern states, the Pankeys will take possession of a new sedan. They will visit the World's fair at Chicago, and other points of interest on their drive home. They plan to be gone around six weeks.

SELL FIREWORKS

TUSTIN, June 28.—The Tustin post of the American Legion has been granted the exclusive privilege of selling fireworks in Tustin and is operating two stands, one on each side of D street. It was announced today by Commander Dixon Tubbs.

One of the little serpent men bowed low, and then he bowed again. "We heard the magic flute call," he exclaimed. "That's why we're here."

"In danger all you lads must be. We've come to help you. Please tell me just what the trouble is. There may not be a thing to fear!"

Woe Duncy answered, "You are right. We're really in an awful plight. I was the one who blew the flute and, gee, I'm glad you came."

"A friend of ours is missing, now. We have to rescue her, somehow. Just think how frightened she must be. It really is a shame!"

"Don't get excited," said the man, "but tell us, plainly as you can, just where we'll find your little friend. Then we'll know what to do."

"Her name is Dotty," Scouty cried. "A tree grabbed her and ran to hide. If you are going to fight the tree, we'll gladly go with you."

"Ho, ho!" The serpent man laughed long. "Is that the only thing that's wrong? It must have been the crazy oak that's always pulling tricks."

"That tree's a nuisance. Yes, sirree! It's just as mean as it can be. When we get through with it, it will be in an awful fix!"

And then he shouted, "Come on, men! We're on our merry way again. Be sure and have your hatchets ready. We may have to fight."

"We'll chop the tree down, if we can," then through the woods the whole bunch ran. "Oh gee," wailed little Duncy, "I hope this turns out all right."

They found the tree, not far away, and Windy promptly cried, "Hurray! It still is holding Dotty. Hurry, please! Begin to chop."

The serpent men all sailed right in, and shortly one said, with a grin, "We're going to keep on hacking till we make the big tree drop."

How DISTANCE WRECKED LILY PONS'S ROMANCE

By HELEN WELSHIMER

NEXT spring, when green winds blow along the Champs Elysee, and the Seine is bluer, will Lily Pons, the diminutive French opera star with the sparkling eyes, go back to Paris and make legal and lasting the estrangement which now exists between her and her adoring, elderly husband?

"You can't love a man who is not with you," was the theme of the new song the famous coloratura soprano was singing when she docked in New York recently from fresh triumphs in South America.

It seemed that when the distance in miles between the two people was too great, they simply couldn't continue to care. And she was quoted by the delegation of reporters that met her as confirming the reports that she would seek a divorce upon her return to Paris next spring.

But when Lily reached Los Angeles for her grand opera engagement there, she began to sing a slightly different tune, the drift of which was that, while she admitted a separation, the thought of actually getting a divorce had not entered her mind, and would not enter it.

Some people really believed this. But others preferred to put their own interpretation on the affair.

LILY PONS has a great repertory. She is capable of singing a great many different songs. But those who know her insist there will be no reconciliation aria coming from the direction of Paris when she and August Mesritz meet again.

The fact remains that Lily Pons belongs to America now. She is a star of the Metropolitan Opera Company. But her husband is a Dutch business man with headquarters in Holland and Paris.

Fate has given an ironical twist to the wind-up of the romance. It was August Mesritz, former Dutch publisher and lawyer, who discovered that his wife could sing. He went with her every day for three years while she ran up and down and all around the black and white song ladders under a famous teacher's guidance. He fairly made her sing, and made her famous.

But because he did she won her place in American opera. And as Lily Pons said, you can't love a man who is far away!

An ocean separated the little French girl from the elderly husband who made her an opera star---and now, despite her insistence that she adored him, Lily admits changing her mind

Mr. and Mrs. Giovanni Zenatello, who share Lily's earnings no longer.

But distance in miles isn't the only space that Lily Pons and August Mesritz had to span. She is 28 and he is nearly 55.

HE had been married and had a son before he met Lily. She was just beginning to grow up. It came close to being one of those "May and December" romances.

It all seems odd to the people who know Lily Pons, for her husband was her favorite theme of conversation. She freely admitted that he put her where she is today. She still insists that he is wonderful. It's just a matter of distance—that's all. Love simply can't bridge the miles.

But in the light of the first act of the play there is the question of love spanning the years as well.

"My husband has always been wonderful to me," Lily Pons said when she came to America and started on her famous career two years ago. "I fell in love just as girls everywhere always fall in love. And it was my husband who first told me that I could sing, and encouraged me to try."

"It was so nice to have someone on whom to lean, someone who knew the way!"

There was something confiding, almost daughtery in the remark.

Now, as she talks about the estrangement, she takes the same viewpoint. She is still very fond of him.

But what about romance, the world asks?

"MY husband is such a fine man. I'm so happy in America and I would so like to have him with me," she said in the days before the rift came.

But he couldn't leave his business all the time to applaud his wife after he had started her in her career. He had to stay at home. And the mileage became too great, Miss Pons is admitting.

Lily Pons weighs 100 pounds. Her eyes dance breathlessly. She is femininity personified. The world is a big gold ball for her to roll. And there are plenty of applauding men in her audiences when she sang.

Rumor is linking up one name and another with hers, but she refuses to talk. Just blames the separation on distance.

But here is the setup of the love story that is breaking.

Lily Pons, seven years ago, was a 21-year-old girl who knew how to play the piano and act. She had been a star piano pupil at the Paris Conservatoire, winning a prize at the age of 16. She went into comedy.

Then she met August Mesritz. He knew so much more about life than the boys who surrounded her. He was chivalrous, polished, adoring. And she fell in love.

THE prima donna and the retired lawyer and publisher were introduced to each other at a dinner party at Cannes one night in 1923. The next morning they both went walking down the same street. They met. And they were glad to see each other.

Mesritz didn't sweep her away with a flame of young enthusiasm. He didn't equal the dramatic climaxes of the love scenes of her operas. But she didn't know anything about those love scenes then. He had to train her for them.

He was established. Lily Pons was just starting. Cupid shot an arrow that had nothing to do with age. They were married.

One night August Mesritz was listening to his wife sing. She thought he was more interested in the rhythm that her fingers were coaxing from the piano than in her voice.

"All of a sudden he said, 'Lily, you sing better than you play,'" she recalls. "He wanted me to study voice. So I did. It was so lovely to have a husband who understood to help me."

HE put Lily Pons in training under Senor de Gorostiaga, or Alberti, as they call him in Paris. He went with her while she took her one-hour lesson each day. She was gay, eager, restless, happy. He was watchful, quiet, sophisticated.

August Mesritz, who was separated from his prima donna wife by a gap in years as well as in miles.

Lily made her debut in a small town in France, her husband having arranged a series of appearances in the provinces. One night, Madame Maria Gay, Spanish soprano and ex-Metropolitan singer, and her husband, Giovanni Zenatello, heard her sing, arranged for an introduction and asked that they be allowed to arrange an audition for her with the famous Gatti-Casazza, impresario of the Metropolitan.

Lily and her husband assented, and in their enthusiasm readily agreed to sign a 10-year contract, giving the Zenatellos 15 per cent of her earnings.

The little French girl arrived in New York in March, 1930, weak and ill from seasickness. A few weeks later, still underweight and far from strong, she sang for Gatti-Casazza—and so impressive was she in her trial that she was given a five-year contract with the Metropolitan.

HER debut at the "Met," less than a year later, was a triumph. She was a star overnight.

Then trouble began between August Mesritz and the Zenatellos, Mesritz objecting to the terms of the contract by which the Zenatellos shared so profitably in Lily's earnings. A lawsuit followed, during which it was brought out that the Metropolitan also got a lot of the French girl's money. The court dismissed the Zenatellos' suit, declaring Lily was free to go under other management.

Then August Mesritz went back to Europe—and even at the time of his sailing it was beginning to be rumored that all was not as happy as it might be between him and his wife. But Lily talked differently.

The opera star swung higher and higher in the Metropolitan galaxy. She missed the counsel of the man who had paved the way for her. He was a splendid person. She loved him dearly.

"We hope to establish a home in America," she said many times. "We have many wonderful etchings which we shall bring from France. We want our own things about us. We shall have a real home."

Last spring August Mesritz was in New York with his wife. One day he sailed for Paris. Business, of course, he said. She didn't go with him. She had a concert tour to make. But that was all right. They would be reunited later, everyone knew.

IN May Miss Pons sailed. Then in July she went to South America for another concert tour. Her husband was not with her.

She didn't talk about her husband or the home in America that they would have.

That romance had ended.

And she blamed it on distance. Too many miles to be traversed between the places where she and Mesritz had their separate interests.

The moons are golden down in Rio de Janeiro. The lush green foliage is heavy with perfume. The tropical winds are haunting.

Rumors of one man and another who had fallen under the spell of the dancing eyes and the soaring soprano voice drifted back. And with them came word that Lily Pons was separating from her husband.

Distance can't lend enchantment forever, she believes. But proximity—that's a different story, for as long as her husband went with her for her daily music lessons and sat in her audiences she sang to him alone.

And whether or not there is another romance—one without a bridge of years to span—she won't say.

VACATION IDEAS ON KREG TONIGHT

"Sororite Shop Synopses" at 4:30 tomorrow afternoon on KREG will tell with vacation ideas, both in practical suggestions and in music, program officials stated.

The music of Bert Lown, Gus Arnheim and their orchestras and other famous band groups will offer the care-free tunes "Ro-Rollin' Along," "June Time Is Love Time," "How the Time Can Fly," and other bits of melody appropriate to summer days and nights and plenty of fun.

The presentation will also bring brief, concise announcements of interest to every woman in Orange county who is looking for sports wear at prices that are almost unbelievably low, but based upon quality and style desired by those who are particular.

"Sororite Shop Synopses" are broadcast each Tuesday and Thursday afternoon from the local station.

THE RESULTS OF ELECTION WILL PROVE TEACHER

Well, California had an election yesterday. So did Santa Ana, Fullerton, Orange and Orange county. And when the storm blew over, and we cleared away the debris, this is what we found.

We found that Santa Ana had voted for beer by a 516 majority. We found that Orange had voted for beer by a majority of 159. Santa Ana voted for the repeal of the 18th amendment by a majority of 594 votes. The county carried for the repeal of the 18th amendment also.

California, as a whole, voted overwhelmingly to permit gambling, in the form of betting on horse racing. Orange county voted against it—Santa Ana furnishing a third of the majority of the county on that. On all other questions but liquor, the people of Santa Ana voted in harmony with the suggestions of The Register, even though it was contrary in several respects, to the total vote of the state. The same is true of several measures in both the incorporated and unincorporated areas in Orange county.

In the decisions of the people, there were some very noticeable surprises. While we had hoped that Santa Ana and the various cities in the county would go "dry," yet we did not expect it, and we would not have been surprised at a very much larger majority for beer than was cast. In fact, the smallness of the majority in Santa Ana and in Orange was one of the surprises of the day.

The percentage of the majority for beer in Santa Ana was the smallest of the three cities which voted on beer. Fullerton's was the largest, in proportion to the total vote cast. A very great surprise to many was the vote to legalize betting, which is practically the legalization of gambling in the state of California. Orange county fortunately showed her record against this proposition.

It is quite significant that the places, that have had beer in them for several weeks, voted against the repeal of the 18th amendment. Riverside county, that has had the sale of beer permitted for the last few weeks, is the one county in the state that recorded its vote against the repeal of the 18th amendment. Tustin also, that has had liquor in her midst, voted against the repeal of the 18th amendment. But in the state at large, the vote went in the neighborhood of three to one, and in the cities of Anaheim, Fullerton and Orange, the vote followed closely the vote upon the question of beer.

We have been, and we are going to continue to be, strong believers in democracy, and while the vote sometimes is disappointing, and sometimes it appears the voters have voted against their own clear interest, yet the way they can learn their mistakes is by acting. We refer in this, not to the liquor issue, but rather to the propositions to divert some of the money that has been used for highways to the payment of our debts, so as to save the taxpayers. Seventeen million dollars would have been saved the taxpayers by propositions 9 and 10. Santa Ana voted for such diversion and the vote was heavy in neighboring places 'round about. But it was refused in the state at large, and the taxpayers will have just that heavier burden to meet, to the tune of seventeen million dollars, than they otherwise would have had.

This problem will confront the legislature as it convenes, and this vote by the people which virtually meant to increase taxes, in the form of sales tax, income tax or property tax, to meet this $17,000,000, rather than take it out of the gas tax, means that the legislature has a mandate from the people to put on a burden of tax through sales or income, which will meet the exigencies of the case. We are extremely confident that as the months go on, the voters will feel that some way or other, and somewhere, they were "flim-flammed" when they voted as they did, on the tax amendment and on the diversion of the gas tax.

We believe that the people of Santa Ana and vicinity, if they watch and keep checking up, will find that had the state voted as Santa Ana voted, it would have saved the taxpayers much.

While we believe in several cases, it would have been infinitely better for the people to have voted the other way, whatever ill results or good results, they will meet, and experience is the best kind of a teacher. We have watched some of these campaigns that have been carried on for years. We have expressed our opinions strongly, and, we hope, forcibly. We wish it were possible sometimes for us to change our mind with the majority vote. In our younger days, we were rather inclined to believe that the voice of the people was the voice of God, and we still, in the long run, believe that the people will express their highest interest after testing and trial, but a new generation may have to rise, which must go through the same experience as the preceding one.

We do feel, however, that Mr. Hearst and the forces which have associated themselves with him, should be congratulated upon the remarkably successful campaign that has been conducted in the last few years, to do away with the prohibition conditions. He and others have succeeded in making a majority of the people believe that most of the ills of life, including the depression, are due, pretty much, to the prohibition of the sale of alcoholic liquor.

While it may be in a year or two the people will hardly believe it possible, in the light of their experience, that they were ever led along this path, yet they may, on the other hand, be so delighted with it, its virtues and the reduction of crime and the lessening expense, that it will induce their majority to increase. Those of us who thought we had experience in other years and came to conclusions as the result of experience, may find that human nature is changed; that the nature of alcoholic liquor is changed, and that the physical organisms have changed. So that they can all mix and mingle in a way for the happiness, the protection and the advancement of the race, quite contrary to the manner in which we thought and believed.

In the meantime, the majority has spoken. They want to try things out, and give both betting and booze a free hand in California. While we have nothing particular in California now except our climate and ocean and mountains, that the other states have not in abundance, we ought to tell them that in liquor they are no better than we are. And while we had hoped that we could invite the thousands of "drys" to Santa Ana in the belief that Santa Ana was going to be different here in Orange county from the rest of them, yet we do want to tell the people in Anaheim and Fullerton and Orange, and out through the county, that they are able to get everything in Santa Ana that they do in their towns, so come, folks, to Santa Ana to trade. We have just as much beer as you have.

We trust that all the better things of our city and county will boom as never before. If there is anything in beer to make us a better city and county, we are going to get it. And we can all be happy that the unemployment bonds carried. We stood by the president and a lot of others. Many people are supremely happy today.

SCORE ONE FOR ALABAMA

In setting aside the verdict of the jury convicting the young Negro, Heywood Patterson, for an alleged assault upon a white woman, Judge Horton, who acted as trial judge in the case, has scored heavily for Alabama justice.

It is evident that there is not to be a repetition of the Mooney case here in California or the Sacco-Vanzetti case in Massachusetts. It is quite likely that this decision by Judge Horton will bring to an end the Scottsboro cases, which were destined to have reverberations all over the world as the two cases above mentioned.

In Alabama, as in California and Massachusetts, a great body of prejudice has been aroused against the defendants, which seemed destined to work a great injustice to the accused. Let it be said to the credit of the Alabama courts, that thus far they have been able to rise above the local prejudices.

If justice is ultimately meted out to the youths charged with a heinous crime, it will make Alabama a better state for all the people within its borders. Great progress has been made in the relationship between the white and black peoples of the South in recent years. It has been a difficult problem of adjustment. The South has not always had the sympathy of other parts of the country as it faced this problem.

The setting aside of the verdict by Judge Horton on the ground of insufficient evidence will do much to keep this progress going on. It should be said that many high-minded leaders of the white race in Alabama have had the courage to stand against prejudice. Among these, the Rev. Dr. Henry M. Edmonds, Presbyterian minister in Birmingham, has been outstanding. Himself a Southerner, his voice and his efforts have done much to place the state of Alabama in an enviable place among the states of the Union as one in which justice will be done to the humblest of its citizens.

THE MORGAN DEFENSE

It is a wholesome thing when men of great financial leadership and power, charged with unsocial conduct as have been the partners in the Morgan concern, carry their case to the public in the hope of public vindication. It reveals a growing sense of the power of public opinion.

The pamphlet recently issued from the office of J. P. Morgan and Company, and sent to editors, clergymen, and other molders of public opinion, indicates that no man and no group of men are powerful enough to defy the moral sense of the nation.

As such, the statement will be welcomed and carefully read. It is, as might be expected, a very plausible statement, attempting to justify the methods used to control the financial and industrial life of the nation and the world. No doubt, these men kept within the law; and, it might be added, there was no exercise on their part of a brutal tyranny such as marked an earlier generation. But their methods cannot be continued at a time when the "forgotten man" is clamoring for his just share in the productive enterprises of society.

We commend a reading of the Morgan defense as manifest in this statement. But let it be read with an alert mind, so that its fallacies and its plausibility may not overpower that sense of justice to which all men are becoming increasingly sensitive.

Economics and Sea Sickness

San Francisco Chronicle

This business of President Roosevelt's carrying on consultations with economics experts on a yacht in a turbulent sea makes a vivid picture. It becomes easy for the American public to visualize him keeping vigil over the troubled Ship of State. But there is a class of citizenry, less blessed with seafaring hardihood than is the President, that is inclined to wonder about an incidental detail or two. What if one of the President's advisers should happen to be a poor sailor? Would that disqualify him from membership in the Brain Trust? Whenever we personally have groined in the misery of seasickness, keen thinking about the gold standard has been just about the last thing that could possibly enter our minds.

Strong Man, Huh?

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

TOO BAD TO BE TRUE

I never had a liking for a hero
Who would rather choke than vary from the right,
And I found a greater thrill in
The devices of the villain;
He was governed soul and body by his spite.
But I think a single scoundrel in a story
Is sufficient, and it gets me pretty mad
When the rascals, gals and lovers—
Every one between the covers
Of a modern book of fiction
All are bad.

Here and there I think you ought to meet a person
Who could do a decent action now and then,
Here and there you should meet some one—
Even though a weak and dumb one—
Who did not deserve a sojourn in the "pen."
It would cheer me, if among a crowd of rascals
There might be someone in the fleet—
Just one gentleman or lady
Who was something less than shady
And whom you thought you'd really Like to meet.

I'm convinced that all the people on the planet
Haven't utterly and hopelessly gone wrong;
I can't think all lovely ladies
Are en route direct to Hades,
Where they'll meet their erring gigolos ere long.
I should like once more to read a pleasant story,
Though I fear that it might give me quite a jar,
In which all the folks you met with—
Played, or smoked or drank or bet with—
Were depicted just exactly as they are.

Pop was smoking and thinking
In his private chair and I said,
Hay, pop, is it wrong to swap Somebody something with something a matter with it and not tell them in case they don't ask you?

Whether they ask you or not it would be a case of misrepresentation, judged by the highest standards of ethics, pop said, and I said, Well then gosh, I awn't do it. I swapped Shorty Judge my leather strap with the black buckle for his beard whistle, and if you pull that strap exte tite the buckle turns over backwards and comes undid again, so I guess
I better tell him about it and swap back if he wants to, I said.

Spoken like an honest man, my honest boy, pop said. We all make mistakes, but if we do our best to set them rite again we can ballence our books with the O. K. of that most severe of public accountants, our own conscience, he said, and I said, Well then that's what I'll do, I'll go rite up to him and tell him about that buckle.

Sure you will, and he'll have more respect for you and you'll have more respect for yourself, pop said, and I said, And I'll tell him if he wants to swap back he can.

He'll want to all rite, pop said, and I said, I bet he wont, because every time you blow that darn beard whistle hard the little thing inside gets stuck and it wont blow again even easy for about a half a hour, and I bet he knew it too, the darn cheater.

Yee gods, pop said. This thing is taking on all the complications of a big buzzness deal, and what you need is the services of a corporation lawyer. Meanwhile all I can say is, it serves you rite, he said.

Wich it probably does.

In the Long Ago

From The Register Files
14 Years Ago Today

JUNE 28, 1919

Of the 112 members of the senior class of Santa Ana high school, at least 60 will attend some higher institution of learning next year, it was revealed today.

A five-year-old boy and a match caused destruction of a large barn, 12 tons of baled hay, several cords of valuable stove wood, some farm implements, harness and other valuable when the barn on Dr. Robert S. Randall's ranch on East Orangeflower avenue burned to the ground.

N. T. Edwards and family of Orange have gone to Bear Valley to spend a week's vacation.

Joseph M. Cummings, secretary of the League to Enforce Peace, will be in Santa Ana Monday evening.

The wedding of Miss Isabel Jayne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Jayne, and John Ball, son of Dr. and Mrs. C. D. Ball, was solemnized in the Methodist church last evening at 6 o'clock.

Thoughts On Modern Life

By GLENN FRANK

SOME MODERN MONKS

The monks managed to keep learning alive in the Dark Ages because the monasteries served as cities of refuge in which men concerned with the enterprise of scholarship might carry on.

Scholarship finds itself again facing a Dark Age induced by the current economic stringency, the radically slashed appropriations and the drastically pared budgets of the universities of the United States.

It is generally conceded that the greater the confusion and arrest of a time, the greater the need for sustained research in the natural and social sciences.

But the present plight of educational finance throughout the nation is making it difficult for universities to keep even their normal research programs going.

Many American universities are now being forced backward just when they should, for the sake of the national future, go forward.

The University of which I happen to be the executive head is undertaking, in the midst of the direct fiscal difficulties that have confronted American universities in a generation, to meet this issue.

Next year the University of Wisconsin will assign thirty-six of its productive scholars, for periods ranging from a few months to a full year, to the full-time direction of between sixty and seventy important researches already under way or freshly authorized by the Research Committee of its Graduate School.

The terms under which the University will commission these scholars to carry on these researches will be radically informalized. They will be freed from the requirements to deliver lectures or to conduct formally scheduled seminars. Their graduate students will work with them on the authorized research projects in an informal master-apprentice relationship. Means for assessing results will be devised and graduate credit given for the work so carried on.

This unprecedented step forward in the promotion of productive scholarship has been made possible by a generous grant from the University's own Alumni Research Foundation.

This Foundation, by the liberality of its grant, enables this University, despite the fiscal difficulties of the time, to set up this program of research leaves correlated with a master-apprenticeship form of graduate training, and thus to create, for the time being, little cities of refuge in which, as in the monasteries of the Dark Ages, productive scholarship may flourish just when economic circumstances most seriously threaten its continuance.

This program, if extended where possible in other centers, may have important bearing upon the American future.

SLOW OR DULL

A slow moving child is at a great disadvantage in this day of speed. He is likely to be mistaken for a dull child, one whose mind is not as bright as it might be. This is a severe blow to the growth of the slow moving child, one likely to do him grave injustice.

It is true that there is what we might call a group speed, the usual rate of moving and of doing. A few restless souls exceed the pace of the group and annoy us, irritate us into sharp words, by their haste. Another few move slowly, fall behind the group and annoy and irritate us because they make us wait for them. We revenge ourselves on this group by calling them names. It is not wise.

Each of us is set to move and work to a certain rhythm. If we are asked to move faster, or slower, we are uncomfortable. We cannot do our best. We cannot live on any other basis than our own with any degree of success or comfort, so when we scold and drive and push the slow moving child he resents it, slows down, and sinks into the depths of unhappiness. Why not let him alone?

Take the slow moving child to a good child specialist. Try to discover if he lacks anything that you can give him. Build up his health, set his program within the limits of his ability, and then let him grow at his own rate of speed. Unless he is defective, and the specialist will know about this if you do not, he will succeed in working out his own solution in life.

There is a kind of mind that takes a long look at any idea presented to it, turns it over and over until every side of it has been questioned and tested satisfactorily. Then a decision is made, and that idea is registered in its right place for good and all. Meanwhile the class has been working ten examples. "What's this?" One example finished. How in the world do you expect to get anywhere if you work one example while the class works ten? This will never do. You get 10 per cent. That means a failure. I tell you, this won't do."

Maybe it will do for him. The class did ten examples all the same kind. For drill, you say. So they fix the idea. Maybe your slow child, who did the one, drilled himself thoroughly, so thoroughly, doing that one example, that he needs no more drill. That has happened. It all depends upon the kind of mind that slow child has. You can't be sure that all of those quick moving children who did ten examples fixed the idea for good and all, can you? Some had them all right, some had them all wrong, and some had failures and successes all the way between. Why be certain that the slow child was the worst in this particular?

Give the slow child his chance. Study him. You might discover some day that this slow moving mind has tremendous power. Dr. Johnson was not fast on his feet, nor with his hands, but the mind that dwelt in that ponderous body ran with lightning speed and power over and under and round about any idea that came to it. His teachers didn't like him. Some even called him dull.

It may be that your slow child is dull. And maybe again, he is not. It all depends.

(Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, enclosing stamped, addressed envelope for reply.)
